Senate Votes To Raise Personal Tax Exemption

Washington (AP) — The Senate voted 40 to 37 Friday to raise the personal income tax exemption to $800 starting in 1972 instead of the $750 allowed by the House.

This vote, adding $1.9 billion of benefits for individuals to the $15.5 billion tax cut bill, was a victory for Democrats who have contended the measure is lopsided in favor of business.

It was a defeat for the administration which contends the already big federal deficit will not permit any greater relief for individuals.

The amendment, sponsored by Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., was adopted with votes for 33 Democrats and 2 Republicans. Opposed were 28 Republicans and 9 Democrats.

The Senate also added to the bill on a 47 to 31 vote a $1.5 billion program of extra unemployment compensation benefits in states with jobless totals of at least 6%.

This, too, was opposed by the administration on the grounds of cost.

The $800 exemption would mean a tax cut of about $50 for a family of four with a taxable income of $12,000 as compared with what it would pay with a $750 exemption.

Under present law, the exemption is $650 this year, $700 in 1972, and $750 starting in 1973.

Sen. Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah, Republican floor manager for the bill, declared the business tax cuts in the

Beermann Probably Will Seek Tax Rate Higher Than Exon's

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

Figures released by Secretary of State Allen J. Beermann Friday indicate that he probably will ask the State Board of Equalization Monday to set the state's income and sales tax rates at a figure higher than Gov. J. James Exon's recommended rates.

The information shows that federal income tax paid by Nebraskans in 1971 will drop by 1.4% and by 4.1% in 1972, provided the Senate version of a federal tax cut is enacted.

This would mean that federal income tax collections in 1971 for Nebraska would drop by $7.5 million from the anticipated $540 million before enactment of the proposed federal income tax revision.

Using the 4.1% expected decline in 1972 as a result of the federal tax cut, the original estimate of $574 million in federal taxes would decline by $23.5 million.

About $1 Million Less

If Exon's proposed 13% state income tax rate was accepted, this would result in approximately $1 million less in 1971 than the $70.2 million in state income tax revenue if there was no federal cut.

In 1972, the difference in state income tax revenue between the estimates without figuring in the federal cut and estimates taking into account the anticipated federal tax cut is roughly $3 million.

At 13%, 1972 state income tax revenue before the federal cut would be $74.6 million; after figuring in the reduction due to the federal measure, the state's income tax revenue would be $71.6 million.

Beermann previously had indicated that if revenue declines by $1 million, the 13% income tax rate would have to be raised to at least 14%.

The information was supplied by Deputy Assistant Treasury Secretary Joel Segall in response to a letter from Beermann requesting information on the impact of the federal legislation.

Would Cut State Revenue

Such a tax cut could reduce the flow of revenue into state coffers at current state income tax levels (currently it is 10%), since Nebraskans' state income tax rate is a percentage of the federal tax bite.

Any reduction in federal taxes would produce a corresponding decline in state revenue.

Consequently, the state's tax rates would have to be adjusted upward.

Hassle May Develop

Thus, a major political hassle may develop at Monday's board meeting.

Democrats Exon and Tax Commissioner Bill Peters had favored setting the income tax rates now at 13% and the sales tax at 2.5%. They contend that when the full impact of the federal measure is known the rates can be adjusted.

If the rates were set now, he said, the result could be either a surplus or a deficit in revenue due to a lack of accurate information.

However, the Republicans (Beermann, Auditor Ray A. C. Johnson and Treasurer Wayne Swanson) have the necessary votes to swing the five-man board should Beermann propose a higher tax rate.

Holding the income and sales tax rates at 13.2.5 was one of Exon's campaign promises.

Publication of the regulations in Saturday's Federal Register means the wage and price freeze ends on schedule Sunday, allowing deferred raises to go into effect for millions of workers and setting rules aimed at holding price increases to 2.5% a year on average.

The Cost of Living Council, which outranks both the pay and price panels, issued a last minute ruling exempting federal employees and servicemen from general post-freeze wage control.

This means that an average 15% military pay raise may go into effect on schedule Sunday for America's 2.6 million men and women in uniform.

The council further said the auto industry may, without advance approval, begin paying a scheduled wage increase and raise prices to match. However, both increases could be subject to possible rollback.

Meanwhile, the President's Pay Board and Price Commission issued their first legally binding regulations.

The delays that Nixon imposed on general federal pay increases remain in effect, putting back white collar pay increases to next July 1 and delaying all blue collar adjustments six months.

However, within-grade, merit and longevity increases for federal workers will resume Sunday.

The council also said fees charged for all new life insurance and annuities, with the exception of credit-life insurance, will be exempt from price control.

However, prices for auto insurance, health insurance, property insurance, casualty insurance and other types of coverage will be controlled.

Also exempt from wage controls are all workers who receive less than the federal minimum wage, which currently is $1.60 an hour.

Donald Rumsfeld, the council's executive director, said these wages "seldom" contribute to the factors responsible for inflation."

Generally, wage agreements covering 5,000 or more workers must be given advance clearance by the pay panel before increases may be paid.

However, the council said that such prenotification will not be required for existing contracts before Jan. 1.

A corresponding exception was made for giant corporations, meaning those with $100 million or more a year in sales, which generally are required to get advance approval for price increases. The council said this

Federal Employees Exempted From Post-Freeze Wage Controls

Washington (AP) — Servicemen, federal employees and the working poor were exempted from post-freeze wage controls Friday by the Cost of Living Council.

Life insurance rates also will be allowed to rise without federal controls after the freeze period ends at 12:01 a.m. Sunday.

The council further said the auto industry may, without advance approval, begin paying a scheduled wage increase and raise prices to match. However, both increases could be subject to possible rollback.

This means that an average 15% military pay raise may go into effect on schedule Sunday for America's 2.6 million men and women in uniform.

AN EMISSIONS PROBLEM

Meanwhile, is planning a second plant at its Cooper Station which would boost the first plant's 78,000 kw capacity by some 1.1 million.

A Emissions Accumulate

And although Kelly and Sayre claim the river is capable of cooling itself if heated emissions are spaced far enough apart, little is apparently known about the river's tendency to disperse heat to bottom, banks and atmosphere—or retain and accumulate it as emissions are added repeatedly over a great distance.

Kendle acknowledged that a clean bill of health for two specific plants could even be used by thermal dischargers to justify, step by step, a piecemeal thermal exploitation of the river—with the possibility of a serious cumulative effect on its ecology, although no single source could be proven guilty of violating water quality standards, or individually responsible for ecological damage.

High School Girls Get A Career Boost

By MILAN WALL

Look for a combination of the growing interest in career education and perhaps a bit of women's lib, and the road these days might lead to one Lincoln chapter of DECA (Distributive Education Clubs of America).

Among the leaders in the Southeast High School Club are Patty Horn, president, and Carin LeRossignol, who is secretary of the state DECA organization.

As an officer of the group, said Carin, "you have a lot of responsibility."

"You learn a lot from that," she added.

"More than anything," said Patty, "work in DECA has 'developed leadership qualities' while acquainting

DECA is a nationwide organization with more than 100,000 members taking high school courses in marketing and merchandising.

The two 17-year-old seniors said the Southeast club, through various committees, has this year toured a department store's distribution center in Omaha, accompanied kids from Cedars Home to a football game and operated a booth in the Southeast Key Club carnival.

News Summary

Washington — President Nixon, at an unscheduled news conference in the White House, announced he would withdraw 45,000 more American soldiers from Vietnam during December and January, leaving 139,000 U.S. troops on Feb. 1. He said decisions on future cutbacks would be based in part on the release of American war prisoners and the prospects of a cease-fire. (More On Page 1.)

General Approval Given

Washington — While there was approval in both houses of Congress of the president's acceleration of troop cutbacks, congressional doves expressed concern that the administration was committing itself to maintaining a residual force in Vietnam. But even that concern fell short of outright criticism.

Participation Limited

United Nations, N.Y. — Chiao Kuan-hua, Peking's chief delegate to the United Nations, made his first visit to the U.N. headquarters building and told Adam Malik, the president of the general assembly, that China may not participate as actively as expected in the current session because she was not yet familiar with the U.N. situation and had a small delegation.

Drug Benefits Cited

New York — Doctors attending an international symposium in New York on care of the dying said that heroin, LSD and other pain-killing and mind-affecting drugs were often useful in treating people terminally ill with cancer and other diseases. But they cautioned that no medicine can substantiate for personal attention to patients and their families.

Soviets Will Pay Damages

Westport, Mass. — In an agreement that set a precedent for Soviet-American commercial relations, the Soviet fishing fleet promised to pay an American lobster company $89,000 for damages done to the company's fishing gear by Soviet trawlers off New England last spring.

Deduction Figure Hiked

Washington — The Senate voted to increase the personal income tax deduction to $800, effective next year, and approved a proposal by Sen. John V. Tunney increasing unemployment benefits from 39 to 65 weeks in states where the unemployment rate has averaged 6% or more — including New York, New Jersey and Connecticut. (More On Page 1.)

Federal Employees Exempted

Washington — Life insurance fees and the pay of federal employees — including those in the military — and of workers who earn less than the federal minimum wage, now $1.60 an hour, would be exempt from post-freeze price controls, the Cost of Living Council announced. But the delays in general federal pay increases remain in effect. (More On Page 1.)

Maximum Restraint Urged

Washington — Fearing that border clashes between India and Pakistan might lead to all-out war, the United States has "urgently counseled both sides to follow maximum restraint" and was "quietly trying to defuse the situation," Secretary of State Rogers said at a luncheon in Washington. ... $12.5 Million In Stolen Stocks Found

World News

London (AP) — Seven Americans appeared in court Friday charged with conspiring to sell loot from a multi million dollar Chicago stock theft, and the prosecution sought to link them to a criminal ring based in Los Angeles.

Police said they found $12.5 million worth of stock certificates when Scotland Yard detectives raided a London luxury apartment and arrested the Americans, including two movie producers. The court was told the theft of $30 million in securities was involved, but a federal complaint filed in Los Angeles put the total at $78 million.

The securities, said the prosecution, were "the part of proceeds of a $30 million theft." Police in Britain and the United States are looking for the rest of the haul.

Police sources said the stock theft took place at American Banknote Co. in Chicago last August. The FBI in Chicago said the securities blanks were intended for delivery to four U.S. companies when they were stolen.

The Americans were ordered held in Brixton Jail, an antiquated jail in a South London suburb. They were told to appear again next Friday in Marlborough Street Court. Under the British legal system for a preliminary hearing, they didn't get a chance to plead guilty or innocent during their 15 minutes in the dock. "These men are believed to

AFTERMATH OF ACCIDENT

Strike Against Greyhound Lines Set

Daytona Beach, Fla. (UPI) —

The National Greyhound Council of the Amalgamated Transit Union called a strike Friday, effective noon Sunday, against Greyhound Lines Inc., in 42 states.

Federal mediator William Rose said the union officially notified the nationwide bus company of the strike during a negotiating session here Friday. Rose had asked the union to give 48-hour notice of a strike.

The strike would affect some 12,000 Amalgamated Transit

Union employees in the 42 states.

The union had voted earlier this week 8,463 to 405 to give its leaders the authority to call a strike against Greyhound.

The contract, which covers drivers, ticket agents, cashiers and terminal and garage employees, expired Oct. 31. The only states not covered by the contract are in the western division and their contract expires in February.

The agreement between the bus company and the union actually consists of two contracts — one covering wages, fringe benefits and working conditions and the other involving pensions.

Decision May Trigger 'Consumer' Lawsuits

Omaha (AP) — Numerous "consumer" lawsuits against manufacturers may be filed as a result of a State Supreme Court decision Friday, members of the Omaha legal community said.

The high court upheld on a 4-3 decision, a $325,000 Dawes County District Court jury award to Jane Kohler, 28, of Chadron, who was injured in a 1960 auto accident.

The court, in a majority opinion written by Judge Lawrence Clinton, held to the doctrine of "strict liability" in upholding the decision against the Ford Motor Co., maker of the Falcon in which Miss Kohler was injured.

She was permanently paralyzed and the driver, Lois Poppe, of Chadron, was killed in the accident.

Omaha Atty. Albert Fiedler said the decision was a victory for the consumer.

"It will make manufacturers turn out safe products," he said.

He said the decision "merely says that if a manufacturer makes something that's either dangerous or becomes dangerous he is strictly liable when something goes wrong."

T. J. Stouffer, Omaha attorney whose firm represented Ford in the Supreme Court, said the decision was based on "a social theory of law" with which many attorneys disagree.

Deepest Pocket?

He said he disagrees with the theory because it is based on the idea that "the manufacturer is the one who is best able to pass along the cost of the injury — it's just a matter of digging into the deepest pocket."

Stouffer said that because of the ruling, "it's no longer enough that the manufacturer use all possible care in making the product." He said he argued to the court that all tests known to the auto industry were made on the car before it was sold, and that "no one is at fault" in such a case.

Fiedler said there are many similar cases pending in Nebraska and judges and attorneys have been waiting for this decision. He and Stouffer said they expect other suits will be filed.

The attorneys said "strict liability" has been adopted in about 28 states.

$325,000 Damage Claim Against Ford Motors Upheld

By United Press International

The Nebraska Supreme Court, in a 4-3 decision, Friday upheld the awarding of a $325,000 damage claim in a suit filed against Ford Motor Company.

The suit centered around an accident which occurred in Dawes County in 1960. In that accident, one girl, the driver, was killed and another girl, a passenger, was injured.

The injured girl, Jane t Kohler, who was 18-years-old at the time, filed the damage suit contending faulty steering equipment was the cause of the accident.

Ford Motors, however, contend in its appeal the statute of limitations had run out and the girl was not entitled to damages.

3 Phases Try To Improve Enforcement On North Side

Omaha, Neb. (AP) — A three-phase effort is under way to improve law enforcement in Omaha's black community, it was announced Friday.

A "citizen's patrol," a "community protection center," and a "community information program" are in operation on the Near North Side.

The sponsor is the newly formed Council for Black Community Law Enforcement which has a temporary executive council headed by Dr. Milton White, director of the University of Nebraska Black Studies Department.

The main objective of the effort will be "bringing about accountability of the police force to the black community in which they serve," the council said in a news release.

The intention is "not to interfere with the law enforce-parents of he dead girl, Lois Poppe.

Both girls were living in Chadron at the time but were working as nurses aides in Crawford. They were returning to Chadron when the accident occurred.

The damage claim which was appealed was filed in 1969, which Clinton said was in effect a part of the original suit and time was not a factor.

Steering Defect
Miss Kohler, in her suit, specifically contended the cause of the accident was a defective condition in the steering sector of the 1960 Ford Falcon.

Clinton noted "expert" testimony during the trial upheld the contention and said on that basis the firm was strictly liable for damages.

"We hold that a manufacturer is strictly liable... when an article he placed in the market, knowing that it is to be used without inspection for defects, proves to have a defect which causes an injury to a human being rightfully using that product," he said.

Dissent Voiced

Justice Leslie Boslaugh, however, dissented with the majority saying he did not agree with the conclusion there was sufficient evidence to determine the steering defect was the cause.

"There is no direct evidence as to what caused the accident," he said. "What evidence there is as to this issue is circumstantial in nature."

Justices Robert Smith and John Newton joined in the dissent. Newton contended the death and the injuries could have been avoided had the driver put on the brakes when difficulties were first encountered.

In other decisions, the court:
—Upheled the Box Butte County District Court conviction of Elviro Escamilla for robbery.

—Upheled the Richardson County District Court conviction of Michael Lowrey for drug largess.

—Upheled the Lincoln County District Court's decision to award custody of children to the stepmother, Evelyn M. Dorothy Sander.

—Reversed and remanded for further proceedings a decision of the Madison County Dist. Court in a suit filed by State Securities Co. against the Norfolk Livestock Sales Co.

—Upheled the Fillmore County District Court's decision that Arden Johnson be paid $28,800 by the Nebraska Public Power District for an easement on his land.

EVENTS

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Among events of interest is the continuing effort of State Senator John DeCamp in behalf of a state lottery to finance new prison and probation programs and the construction of educational facilities. We suspect that when all the arguments on this are boiled down, the matter resolves itself in the area of personal likes and dislikes.

DeCamp makes the point that a lottery is no different from many other games of chance, many of which are common tools for church fund-raising, etc. In other words, he does not see a lottery as a sinful thing, as he puts it.

We share this point of view with him. It isn't necessarily a sinful thing and those who believe otherwise could simply refuse to participate in it. As DeCamp notes, purchase of a lottery ticket would be entirely voluntary.

His argument might well be bolstered by the opinion that a lot of people are already spending a lot of money foolishly and some of it might as well go for a lottery that has a good purpose behind it. What's the difference if a man wants to put a few bucks a year into a lottery when he is already frittering away more than that on one thing or another he doesn't need?

This isn't said facetiously, because few people can say they never really spend any of their income foolishly or on non-essentials. Perhaps much of the lottery income would be money that would not otherwise be used constructively, anyway.

DeCamp also argues convincingly in regard to the practicality of his suggestion. Nebraska needs funds for the things the senator mentions, as well as many other purposes and there is no question that a lottery would provide substantial income.

The senator further notes that the lottery would be a painless way of raising money. This is probably true, too, since it would operate with something like a fifty-cent chance on the numbers and fifty cents isn't going to break most people.

Figures supplied by DeCamp show that in New York and New Jersey, the latter operating a very successful lottery, almost 90 per cent of the tickets are purchased by individuals with an income of more than $7,000 a year. Assuming his statistics are true, they are surprising.

We have nothing but opinion but it has been that the lottery would tend to obtain money from those least able to afford it. Low-income people might be tempted by the chance of a big win while having nothing to spare for purchase of a number.

We still wonder if the lottery would not rely heavily upon those who could not afford it, even if their income were average or above. People can be in financial difficulty regardless of the level of their income and if they look to a game of chance to bail them out, they will meet with no success.

But granting all of DeCamp's arguments, the lottery just does not appeal much to us. Perhaps he is right that its assets outweigh its liabilities but it is something of an indictment of our system, it seems, to have to rely upon such a scheme to finance our government.

What disturbs us about it is that it constitutes an admission that citizens are not prepared to assume their responsibilities as taxpayers. Sometimes you are tempted to come to such a conclusion but it just cannot be the basis of our future.

We are not heavily opposed to the lottery and we will admit that, perhaps, DeCamp's practicality has more merit than our search for something better. But the answer to problems is to be found in the leadership of the state and the citizenship of all its people.

A lottery is a kind of fooling ourselves, a kind of clever way of getting something for nothing and it simply goes against the grain for this reason.

Success of a lottery should leave people a little chagrined that we could collect funds in this manner that would not be available to us through regular tax channels. We are not against DeCamp's pursuing the matter but we cannot see ourselves as advocates of his proposal.

New Dictionaries
For The Little Folk

NEW YORK — Well, now they're out with a dictionary for preschoolers and—except for the fact that it failed our only preschooler right off the bat—I have to give it a rave review.

As far as grandparents are concerned, it's the greatest. Keeps toddlers happy for hours. Well... minutes, anyway.

How many times, say, have you searched through a magazine for a picture of an "art-art"? With any luck, you'll find one—eventually. Then all you have to do is remember where it was, because in a few minutes you'll be expected to produce it again. Instantly.

Fish are a little harder to find. And bugs are really tough. But it just so happens that "bugs" are very big at our house these days.

That's why the "Primary Dictionary—One" fills the bill. It's a little paperback no bigger than a whodunit (to fit small hands) with 160 pictures in flashy color (for big eyes) printed alongside the words they illustrate.

All very scientific, of course. The publishers put it together after researching word lists, talking to kids, and checking on word trends and colloquialisms.

What they came up with is a picture book rated K (for kids) to help them discover the alphabet (and, of course, dictionaries) and get used to the idea that words are grouped according to the letter they begin with.

There's even an extra plus in feeling, somehow, not quite so goofy playing "Where's the kitty-kitty?" when you're looking it up in a real dictionary.

Phase II Pricing Complex

Paring the Price Commission's guidelines down to the bone, the script reads in twenty-five words or less: Prices can rise only if costs incurred after today's end of Phase I rise and additional profits are justified only if sales volumes increase.

After that generalization, the Price Commission guidelines issued Thursday read somewhat like an esoteric economics treatise meant to an untrained eye.

A good many questions are yet unanswered. The consumer will be confused about what is an approved price boost and what is not. The list of exempted goods and services — which now make up one-fifth of the average American's cost of living — may grow.

What can be expected next week when the guidelines — aimed at holding the national inflation rate from two to three per cent a year — go into effect? "This means that some prices will go down," said Price Commission Chairman C. Jackson Grayson. "Some will not increase at all. Some will go up more than 2.5%."

That's about as specific as Grayson can be at this point, except that under the new orders, retail prices will be frozen only until freeze period prices are posted for comparison and rents on existing houses and apartments will be frozen until a rent board hammers out more permanent rent guidelines.

One thing is certain, however: the wage and price control programs must work hand-in-hand. If wages stabilize and prices increase inordinately, the wage-earner takes it on the chin. If wages increase and prices stabilize, the businessman is murdered.

Aside from the giant corporations, which must seek prior approval of price increases, the commission policies rely heavily on voluntary compliance. It will take compliance on the part of the average businessman or provider of services to make the program work. And the sellers of exempted items should also be expected to honor the spirit of price control.

One other feature of the program is significant. Firms will not be allowed to increase prices to get relief, retroactively, for costs that might have gone up during or before the freeze. This is as it should be. Retroactive relief for business, like retroactive relief for the wage-earner, would defeat the economic stabilization program.

Sec. Hardin Resigns

It seems inconceivable that President Nixon could think he would stand himself in good stead with the nation's farmers by giving Sec. of Agriculture Clifford Hardin.

To be sure, a number of corn belt Republicans warned the President that Hardin — as representative of a policy that is dealing ineffectively with the farm price problem — would hurt GOP chances in 1972. But most farm leaders appreciated, at least, Hardin's dedicated service while heading the department for some 35 months.

If the former Nebraskan's performance can be faulted, it probably would be on the grounds that his personal style of doing things prevented him from publicly being the tough, outspoken spokesman for agriculture that farmers want in that position. But there apparently is little understanding of the pressures — outside and above — put on the secretary and too little credit was given Hardin for his behind-the-scenes efforts.

Was Sec. Hardin forced to resign? That is a matter of conjecture. The White House intimated that he wasn't. We believe that Hardin resigned on his own to enter the perhaps more lucrative and certainly more peaceful area of private business, satisfied that he had tackled for three years one of the most difficult and ungratifying jobs in government.

President Nixon's choice to fill the secretary's post also would confirm the notion that making political hay out of Hardin's resignation was not the grand feature in Nixon's design. Earl L. Butz has been tied to an agriculture policy long since discredited. But it would be unfair to prejudge his performance.

In the final analysis, it is the President who has to answer for his administration's farm policy. Whether the secretary's name is Hardin or Butz won't make that much difference. One dollar and fifty-cent corn would.

Rehnquist's Case Differs From Others Disputed;
Rejection Should Not Come On Political Basis

CLEVELAND — The spectacle of Sen. Edward Kennedy defending the reputation of William Rehnquist against allegations by Joseph Rauh of the Americans for Democratic Action suggests the painful dilemma in which liberals and civil libertarians have been placed by Rehnquist's nomination to the Supreme Court.

This nomination is not like that of Clement Haynsworth, whom President Nixon earlier tried to put on the court. Judge Haynsworth was not confirmed by the Senate on the ostensible grounds that his record on the bench showed a lack of perception of possible conflict of interest situations.

Nor is the Rehnquist case similar to that of Nixon's other rejected nominee, G. Harrold Carswell. Judge Carswell was found to have made misstatements to a Senate committee, and his confirmation hearings disclosed a glaring lack of qualifications for the Supreme Court.

The Rehnquist matter is not even like that of Lewis Powell, whom Nixon has also named to the court. Powell is a pillar of the southern establishment, a good credential in the Senate. Rehnquist's record of opposition to civil rights measures, his strong advocacy of state powers that would threaten Bill of Rights guarantees — at least the court will be limited by that; he is not expected by most observers to become a powerful leader within the court.

Rehnquist is a horse of a very different color. At 47, he can look forward to a long and active tenure on the bench. Moreover, his record is that of a hard-working and vigorous champion of conservative political causes, both in Arizona and within the Nixon administration. Persons in and out of the administration who know his work credit him with superior intellect and skill in the law.

Thus Rehnquist on the court is altogether likely to become a driving force for the principles he espouses. There are those who believe that as the years go along, he will be a more formidable leader than Chief Justice Burger in the conservative wing of the court.

It is no wonder, then, that liberals and libertarians are desperately casting about for means of defeating the Rehnquist nomination in the Senate. Rehnquist's record of opposition to civil rights measures, his strong advocacy of state powers that would threaten Bill of Rights guarantees — at least what many people passionately believe to be guarantees — his youth, and his obvious leadership qualities might alter the course of the Supreme Court for decades to come.

But the hard fact is that no one here has as yet produced any evidence of the kind of ethical tangles that ruined Judge Haynsworth's chances — and before that led to the resignation of Abe Fortas from the court; nor has anyone been able to identify misstatements like those that sank Judge Carswell, let alone a lack of legal or intellectual qualifications.

It was, in fact, on the matter of Rehnquist's integrity that Kennedy rebuked Rauh. The latter had suggested that the nominee had been less than candid in denying ever having been a member of the John Birch Society. The senator could hardly be sympathetic to a man of Rehnquist's views, but he insisted that the nominee's basic integrity was unchallenged.

The real question before the Senate is whether it can, or should, reject Rehnquist solely because of his political views. On the one hand, the writers of the Constitution, in giving the

They Had A Dream

Out of the miseries of slavery, the Negro spiritual emerged. Sometimes called "sorrow songs," spirituals were pure American folk music, created spontaneously by southern blacks in the religious fervor of a Sunday prayer meeting.

In the days before the Civil War, these songs were an intrinsic and living thread in the fabric of black religious life. With the changes which came after emancipation, however, spirituals were in danger of dying out.

A major share of the credit for rescuing this body of unwritten music for posterity belongs to a group of young students from Fisk University who were known as the "Jubilee Singers."

The Jubilee Singers introduced spirituals to white America and to Europe in a series of concerts over a span of seven years. They became universally popular.

A total of 24 students sang with the Jubilee Singers at various times during the life of the group. Twenty of them were former slaves, three the children of slaves.

and voice.

At the time, Fisk began in the primary grades and continued through the college level. Founded at Nashville, Tenn., in 1866 as a Christian school to educate emancipated blacks, Fisk faced a struggle for survival in its first decade.

Funds were provided by the American Missionary Assn., by tuition and by ingenuity. Money for Bibles and spellers was raised by selling for scrap rusty manacles and shackles from the city's abandoned slave pens. But revenues were not enough to meet the costs of educating the school's 1,000 students.

Pattie joined the group in Germany in 1877 replacing contralto Jennie Jackson, compelled by illness to return home.

Pattie remained with the group until it was disbanded in 1878. At that time, the Jubilee Singers had earned more than $100,000 for their school as well as gifts of books, equipment and supplies.

singers earned Fisk $20,000.

In the next seven years, the Jubilee Singers traveled to Europe twice and sang at innumerable concerts, before Queen Victoria and the crowned heads of Germany and the Netherlands.

They had all of Europe and America humming such immortals as "Swing Low Sweet Chariot," "Steal Away Jesus," "Deep River" and "Nobody Knows the Trouble I Seen."

before resistance in Berlin ended and escaped with about 20 people. He asks if a leading Nazi hunter who he thought of it. He is Simon Wiesenthal, director of the small but persistent Jewish Documentation Center in Vienna and a survivor of Mauthausen concentration camp. For 26 years he has been ferreting out war criminals hiding under aliases in strange places. Largely as a result of his detective work, Adolf Eichmann was discovered, seized, tried and condemned by the Israelis.

Wiesenthal considers Gehlen's account of Bormann nonsense and makes the following assertions on the basis of his own massive file on the Nazi boss: He is "known" to have been smuggled to a Franciscan monastery in Rome after the war and, with the aid of a former Croatian fascist diplomat, from there to South America; he has been definitely spotted in several South American places since then, although it is not certain whether he is still alive (he would now be 71). This makes it impossible for Bormann to have spent almost a quarter of a century in the Soviet Union.

Gehlen, now retired, has written personal memoirs in which he contends that Martin Bormann, Hitler's deputy, was actually a Russian secret agent and, after the Nazi surrender, took refuge in the U.S.S.R. where he died two or three years ago.

This makes it impossible for Bormann to have spent almost a quarter of a century in the Soviet Union.

It is inconceivable, Wiesenthal argues, that the Russians would have kept Bormann very long after he was sentenced to death in absentia at Nuremberg. The risk of exposure was too great. Several dozen high Soviet intelligence and police officials would have known of his presence.

Yet, in all the leaks by defectors or agents who either fled Russia or passed information to the West, nobody mentioned Bormann. These include Colonel Runge, one of Beria's deputies, the famous Penkovsky, and Colonel Popov, a high Soviet intelligence official executed as a Western informant. All would necessarily have known the Bormann secret and would surely have mentioned it since they told the allies everything else they knew.

Wiesenthal rounds out these assumptions with a mass of factual evidence establishing that at various times since 1945 Bormann has lived in Chile, Argentina, Paraguay and Brazil. His last credible information confirms Bormann's presence in 1969 near the village of Ibirapuera, near the Paraguayan border in the Brazilian province of Rio Grande Do Sul.

Thus, despite Gehlen's prominence and his access to hitherto unpublished information, Wiesenthal is convinced the German general's tale is "not only false — but impossible." To be in two places at once — South America and the Soviet Union — would have exceeded the talents of even the crafty Bormann.

Exxon Gives Veto Pledge On Excessive Spending

By DON BEMAN

United Press International
Gov. J. James Exxon Friday renewed his pledge to veto spending legislation which would endanger his hold-the-line financial policy.

"I will veto any appropriation, and the Legislature will have to pass it over my veto, that will exceed the amount of money which can be raised by a 13% income tax rate and a 2.5% sales tax rate or its equivalent," the governor said.

Due to pending congressional tax cut legislation at the federal level, the governor may have to increase the Nebraska rates in order to bring in the same amount of money as would be realized from present national rates.

Reverse Decision?

And Exxon said his stand will tend to force the Legislature into deciding whether to reverse its decision of this year's session on the earmarking of an increase in the state cigarette tax for three building projects.

"The legislature is going to have to face the issue of whether they want to raise the sales and income tax rates in order to meet the legitimate needs of state government or transfer the money earmarked for those projects into the general fund," he said.

During this year's session, in a controversial move, the unicameral increased the cigarette tax by a nickel a pack.

The revenue from the increase was channeled into special funds to finance a recreation building at the Beatrice State Home, a proposed state office building and a new University of Nebraska fieldhouse.

Regret Predicted

At the end of the session, the governor predicted the lawmakers would eventually regret the action.

Exxon said recent talks with lawmakers indicates a number are shifting over to his way of thinking that the money should go into the general fund, "including some of those who voted for" earmarking.

"Several of the senators have indicated to me they now understand my position and have also indicated support in the next session of the Legislature" to rechannel the funds, the governor said.

On the overall budget, the governor said he has completed a preliminary review of all requests from the various state agencies.

Reductions Made

He said some "obvious and substantial" reductions were made and also some "tentative and well justified increases."

But overall, he reported, there won't be any slack and he added that construction funds would be on the shortest end.

"We are going to be in a quite limited position as far as capital construction funds are concerned," he said.

However, he did single out two projects at the University of Nebraska which he said would probably receive favorable action.

The two projects include the renovation and enlargement of Love Library and a new Home Economics Building.

Homestead Tax Exemptions

OK'd Average $23.28 Each

Homestead tax exemptions approved in 1970 averaged $23.28 each, State Tax Commissioner William Peters said Friday.

According to figures released by the State Revenue Department, there were 245,871 homestead tax exemptions approved in the state's 93 counties at a total cost of $5,724,436.

The program was begun by the 1969 Legislature and, during 1969, exemptions averaged about $22.

The exemptions are granted by the counties with the state reimbursing the county treasurers.

Douglas County showed the largest number of exemptions with more than 61,000 while Lancaster County had 25,765.

The highest average exemption was $28.35 in Adams County while the lowest was the $5.44 in McPherson County.

Pesticide Containers Specifying Methods Of Disposal Are Urged

The Legislative Council Interim Study Committee on Pesticides wound up its public hearings Friday with a proposal to require pesticide containers to specify methods for disposal of the containers.

The proposal was advanced by Sen. Maurice Kremer of Aurora, who asked committee legal counsel, James Dunlevy to prepare a draft of a bill which the committee might sponsor in the 1972 Legislative session.

The measure outlined by Kremer Friday would require that a pesticide container label must carry information on the method of disposing of the used container and leftover pesticide along with the information that failure to follow the listed guidelines would be a violation of the law.

Kremer's proposal came after several committee witnesses, along with Committee Chairman Sen. Loran Schmit of David City, voiced fear over the effects of haphazard disposal of pesticide containers and small amounts of pesticides.

Hugh Palmer, representing the Nebraska Agricultural Chemicals Association, suggested before the committee Friday that the most practical method of disposing of containers would be a landfill burying operation which doesn't endanger ground water tables.

Committee members also voiced concern that school children were not being taught enough about ecology and the committee decided to sponsor a resolution in the 1972 Legislature to ask the University of Nebraska Extension Division provide some type of training in the field.

Maresh Plans Bill On Trees

State Sen. Richard Maresh of Milligan said Friday he will sponsor legislation in the upcoming session of the Legislature to provide funds to encourage the planting of trees during the 1972 Arbor Day Centennial.

"I hope we can plant one million trees next year," he said.

April 22, 1972, will be the 100th year that Arbor Day has been celebrated since its inception by J. Sterling Morton in Nebraska City.

The newspaper quotes Father Labaj as saying the university has no official position on birth control in general and that it is hard to take a stand on the issue because there remains theological doubt about it despite a papal encyclical declaring it is against the laws of the church.

The newspaper reports that Dr. Pettid said those obtaining the pills are supposed to be 21 years of age, but there is nothing to prevent younger coeds from getting the pills.

Single Coeds At Creighton Can Get Birth Control Pills

Omaha (AP) — Birth control pills are available to single girls on the Creighton University campus. The Creightonian, student newspaper at the Roman Catholic School, has reported.

The newspaper said that despite a statement opposing such distribution by the university president, the Rev. Joseph Labaj, S.J., Dr. Fred Pettid, a physician at the Creighton Family Practice Clinic, says that birth control pills are available to Creighton women.

Waste Management Meeting Set

Bertrand (AP) — The first of several meetings organized by county extension agents in Nebraska to discuss livestock waste management will be held

Dr. John Hession, director of the University Health Service, with offices in the Administration Building, is quoted by the newspaper as saying that while he doesn't prescribe pills for single women, he does refer the women to private physicians or to the university's staff gynecologist at St. Joseph Hospital.

The newspaper quotes Father Labaj as saying the university has no official position on birth control in general and that it is hard to take a stand on the issue because there remains theological doubt about it despite a papal encyclical declaring it is against the laws of the church.

Although he said he had no cost estimates, Maresh said the idea has Gov. J. James Exxon's "wholehearted support."

Exactly what species will be made available Maresh said he did not know.

However, he indicated that he will be meeting with Economic Development Director Stanley Matzke and the state forester to discuss tree selection Tuesday.

The program, which at this stage he said is still flexible, will concentrate on making trees available to villages, civic groups and schools.

"It could possibly be worked through the county treasurers' officers," he said.

Many Elms Killed

The program is of particular importance, Maresh said, because of the large number elm trees killed by Dutch elm disease.

"The pin oak has been suggested as a likely candidate," he said, "but whatever is chosen will have to be hardy in the various soil, rainfall and climate conditions in the state."

The senator said a different species may be recommended for various parts of the state.

"Whatever is chosen, you can be sure it won't be the elm," he added.

Wedding At Home

At a 5 o'clock ceremony on Friday evening, Nov. 12, the marriage of Miss Lynne Kay Whittemore, daughter of Mrs. Rodney K. Whittemore, and the late Mr. Whittemore, to Kenneth L. Felsing, son of George Felsing and Mrs. Fred Kasl, both of Lincoln, was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents. The Rev. James Hansen read the lines of the service.

Mrs. James Kacmarik, the matron of honor, and Mrs. Marshall Whittemore, sister-in-law of the bride, the bridesmatron, were the only attendants.

Richard Edwards served as best man, and seating the guests was Marshall White more.

The bride appeared in a frock of pale blue, designed in the Empire mode. A motif of scallops contoured the neckline, and the scallops were repeated on the cuffs of the full sleeves, and at the hem of the daytime length skirt. Pinned to her shoulder was a corsage of blue carnations and white roses.

The bride, a former student at the University of Nebraska is careering in the State Department of Education. Mr. Felsing recently completed his service with the U.S. Army, including a tour of duty in Vietnam, and is employed in Lincoln.

DEAR ABBY: I've read you for years, but this is my first letter to a newspaper column.

I love and care for an aging parent. She is in her eighties and requires constant care. Bathing, feeding, etc. I do this routinely, 365 days a year.

My husband and I haven't had a vacation in 11 years. I get a "sitter" for a few hours occasionally, but it's expensive, so don't do it too often. need dental work, a physical, a chance to shop for clothes and shoes.

Those who bear the full responsibility of an aging parent, or a severely handicapped relative, know how mind-weary and bone-tired one can become in caring for that individual.

There are lots of people who are looking for hobbies to occupy their free hours. Why don't they ever think of telephoning people like me and saying, "I'll come over tomorrow so you can be free for a few hours."

Bridge is a game of probabilities. You make a certain bid because you think it will probably turn out better than any other bid; you make a certain play because you think it will probably turn out better than any other play. If your judgment in gauging probabilities is good, you will do well, for you cannot have a better ally than the law of probabilities.

Assume you're in six spades and West leads a club. Of course West may have the king, in which case it would be all right to finesse, but your judgement should tell you that it is better not to finesse.

At best you have a 50% chance to win the finesse, while if you go up with the ace you have a far better chance of escaping a club loser by playing three rounds of diamonds, planning to discard a club on the third diamond. The probability of finding the suit divided 4-3 is 62%.

But when you take the ace of clubs and lead the A-K-Q of diamonds, East ruffs and you are forced to overruff. You enter dummy with a heart and play a fourth diamond, hoping that East will either be out of trumps or be compelled to ruff with the ace. Unfortunately, East ruffs low again and once more you overruff.

Now, to show your versatility, you switch to a different method of attack. You lead the K-Q-J of hearts, hoping to find that suit divided 4-4, in which case you can salvage the club loser by discarding three clubs

Hollywood Heights Meadow Lane

Lincoln's suburban residents might very appropriately adopt as their theme, a song which was popular several years ago and which began with the premise "If time were not a moving thing . . ." If it were not, said persons would find themselves in the enviable position of being able to extend a moment for any number of reasons which might catch their fancy. Just think of all of the spare minutes that might be conjured up if such a situation did exist, not to mention the pleasurable events that might be prolonged ad infinitum.

Alas, however, time keeps ticking away and, by all indications, will continue to do so, thus forcing Lincoln inhabitants to do what they have been doing; that is, to squeeze their many daily activities into a 24-hour space—a feat that is frequently difficult to accomplish.

Thanksgiving weekend will, of course, be a busy one for virtually everyone, and included among those who will be spending the holiday away from Lincoln are Hollywood Heights residents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Wirtz and children, Terri Lee, Toni Marie and Danny. The Wirtz family will accompany Mr. and Mrs. John Janovy, Jr. and children, Cindy, Jena and John III to Norman, Okla. where they will (hopefully) cheer the Nebraska Cornhuskers on to a gridiron victory over the Sooners on Thanksgiving Day.

During their stay in Norman, the two families will be guests at the home of Mr. Janovy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Janovy.

This weekend will be perhaps the most festive of the year at the Meadow Lane home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Neeman. At any rate, it is a time for celebrating, as two of the Neeman children observe their birthdays. Miss Lisa Neeman joined the ranks of ten-year olds yesterday; and her brother, Todd, will become an eight-year-old on Sunday.

Yesterday evening, Lisa was the guest

suburbia

of honor at a slumber party held in observance of the special occasion. Included on the guest list were a group of Lisa's friends including Melodee Gibbs, Carole McPherson, Barbara Cranston, Terri West, Shauna Culbertson and Vicki Douglass.

Tomorrow afternoon, Todd will be the center of attention when a number of his friends gather at the Neeman home to wish him a happy birthday. Terry Miller, Aaron Cranston, Bryan Hightman, Doug Carlson, Eric Winters and Fred Roth will attend the party which will have a "cowboys and Indians" theme.

This evening, Lisa and Todd will share honors at a family dinner which will be attended by their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Neeman and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Falls all of Omaha; and, of course, their brothers, Bruce and Craig.

Entertaining out-of-town visitors this weekend will be Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Nelson who will have as their guests, Mr. Nelson's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Nelson and daughters, Melissa, Angela and Elizabeth. The Nelson's will arrive in Lincoln later today, and will return home Sunday evening.

This morning, we'd also like to say a word of welcome to one of the city's newest suburban residents. He is Master William Chandler Fenton, and he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Karl Fenton.

The young man made his world debut on Monday, Nov. 1; and when he arrived home, he was greeted by his sisters, Lynne and Laura, and his brother, Alex. Completing his family circle are his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Hendrickson of Walla Walla, Wash.; and Edward Fenton of St. Louis, Mo.

Incidentally, we understand that the new arrival's paternal grandfather plans a visit to Lincoln in the very near future for the purpose of getting acquainted with the newest member of his family.

Friday Ceremony

The wedding of Miss Kathryn R. Renfro and Frank A. Lundy took place at 6:30 o'clock on Friday evening, Nov. 12, at the Unitarian Church. The Rev. Charles S. Stephen solemnized the ceremony.

Miss Jane Stewart was the maid of honor and the bride's only attendant.

Paul R. Lundy of Boulder, Colo., served as best man.

After Nov. 22, Mr. Lundy and his bride will be residing in Lincoln.

The bride is a graduate of Colorado College and the University of Denver where she is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority. She now is associate director of the University of Nebraska libraries.

Mr. Lundy studied at the University of Southern California and the University of Chicago, and has degrees from Stanford University at Palo Alto, Calif., and the University of California at Berkeley. He now is Emeritus Director of the University of Nebraska libraries.

Late Autumn Bride

Bride At Early Evening Ceremony

Roberts, Miss Diane Roberts, both of Unadilla, and Miss Lori Ann Meyer.

Ralph Martens of Syracuse served as best man, and the groomsmen were Rex Kirchoff of Byron; Earl Martens of Syracuse; Steven Meyer and Greg Meyer.

The gown chosen by the bride was fashioned of white peau de soie and Chantilly lace. The lace formed a front panel from the high throatline, contoured with a pearl embroidered mandarin collar, of the Empire bodice to the hem of the A-line skirt, and the lace was repeated to cuff the Bishop sleeves. A detachable train, patterned with pearl embroidery in a floral pattern, extended from back Empire height into chapel length. Her floor-length veil of illusion was held to the head with a petal profile of lace and pearls, and she carried a cascade bouquet of white sweetheart roses centered with an orchid.

Mr. Roberts and his bride will reside at 1915 B St. Apt. 2, in Lincoln.

The bride is careering as a secretary in the Department of Insurance. Mr. Roberts, a graduate of the Nebraska Vocational Technical School in Milford, is now in the offices of the Department of Roads.

PWP Plans Mineralogy Card Party To Be Topic

The members of Parents Without Partners have planned a rousing evening of pitch and canasta games for Saturday, Nov. 13.

The party is scheduled to begin at 7:45 o'clock and will be held at the home of Mrs. Thelma Fagler, 6730 Dudley. Mrs. Genevieve Denham will serve as assisting hostess.

Mrs. Engelhart will speak on stones and rocks of Neb., and will show some jewelry that has been fashioned from these materials.

Reservations for the luncheon must be submitted to Mrs. C. C. Walgreen, 423-6968, by today.

DREAMS ARE THE DAWN OF TOMORROW

And like the first light of a new day they seem distant, unreal. Yet out of our dreams we often fashion tomorrow.

The dreams of the daylight hours are not in the subconscious. Rather they project our hopes on a screen of reality. They grow into goals and aims and ambitions.

Whether tomorrow will fulfill those dreams depends on certain values which must be acquired today. Ideals, standards, moral principles, religious faith — these inspire dreams worth dreaming, and help us to translate them to reality.

Never worry about your daughter's daydreaming. Be concerned about her opportunities for spiritual development. The Church shares that concern. It can help you do something constructive about it.

Horses Save Bear-Step's Life

CHAMPIONSHIP HORSE SHOW WILL END SATURDAY

By MARK GORDON
Star Sports Writer

If it hadn't been for an Appaloosa horse, Shatka Bear-Step might not be alive today.

Born almost 80 years ago in the Cherokee Strip in Oklahoma Territory, Bear-Step stayed alive for his first five months by drinking Appaloosa horse milk. Although the mare that provided the milk died a short time later, her colt lived for 34 years under Bear-Step's care.

"I'm indebted forever to the Appaloosa horse—in fact, I owe my life to it," says the man who has become a legend in modern Appaloosa history.

"I didn't get tall, dark and handsome from drinking the milk, but I did get tough," he grins.

In Lincoln for the World

Championship Appaloosa Performance Show at the Fairgrounds Coliseum, Bear-Step performed his famous Lord's Prayer Friday night.

Saturday, beginning at 7:30 p.m., is the final show which concludes the event's three-day run.

Although there are now 25,000 Appaloosas, the breed's population shrank to just 25 in 1933. Most were in the Poluce River Valley in Washington, Idaho and Oregon.

"At that time, the Indians drank the Appaloosa's blood to stay alive," Bear-Step of Cherokee ancestry, pointed out.

For the past 24 years, he has attended the nation's most prestigious Appaloosa shows.

Although Bear-Step owns just seven Appaloosas on his ranch near Rawhide, Ariz., one of them—Apache Tears—is one of the country's most famous horses.

The 14-year-old stallion is 1970's Grand Marshall of the Parada Del Sol and Bear-Step rides him in movie scenes and for personal appearances.

Bear-Step's trophy collection at his Scottsdale, Ariz., home numbers more than 100.

Besides his Appaloosa interest, he is known as a master of the ancient Indian art of producing distinctive designs in molten silver. His silver and turquoise creations are sought by breeders and owners of Appaloosas, particularly the Bear-Step Katouche which he awards to the champion two-year-old stallion each year at the National Appaloosa Horse Show.

"The show here is the World Series of our trade," hereditary chief of Mi Ashi Ton Gaxas says, "You'd be prejudiced, too, if you spent as much time with them (Appaloosas) as I have."

The event, which attracted 297 horses from 39 states, has 15 classes, each with nearly $1,000 in prize awards.

Friday night results:

'Future Of Parks Rests With Citizen'

"The very future of the parks and recreation movement ultimately rests with the citizen," Robert Artz Friday told an audience of over 100 representatives from park and recreation boards and commissions from across Nebraska.

"Until we as professionals are willing and able to make them full-fledged partners in our efforts we will never be successful," said Artz, director of community services for the National Parks and Recreation Association in Washington, D.C.

In an interview at the day-long workshop, sponsored by the Nebraska Recreation and Parks Association, Artz said the increased leisure available to many Americans meant that planning was needed to handle an increased demand for recreational programs and facilities.

"Parks and recreation have to be up there as a national priority, and I think it's coming," Artz said.

The value of recreation, Artz

Hands-Off Policy Told By Rogers

Washington (UPI) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers said Friday the United States was "apprehensive" that war might erupt between India and Pakistan in the next few days, but he told applauding journalists that American forces would not intervene.

"Some states are behind," he said. "But it's the kind of 'behind' people like to live in."

This meeting was terrific," Artz said. "Nebraska is in a good position — as are many of the Midwestern and Western states. It's time to take advantage of your environment and plan adequately. You have the time to do that in Nebraska, some states don't."

Diplomatically we are going to do everything we can to prevent war from breaking out," he told the 62nd annual convention of Sigma Delta Chi, the honorary journalism society.

But he added, "if war breaks out we intend to stay out. We are not going to get involved in another war."

Rogers expressed concern over the buildup of forces and "the rising wave of armed clashes for a second day along the East Pakistan border."

"We are apprehensive that these clashes might lead to an outbreak of hostilities in the days ahead," he said. "We have urgently counseled both sides to exercise maximum restraint."

Other administration officials said they did not believe the Soviet Union or Communist China would seek to become involved in any outbreak of war.

It is very gratifying to know that there are times, when one's time and efforts are not always all in vain," the release stated.

Senate Votes To Raise Personal Tax Exemption

Washington (P) — The Senate voted 40 to 37 Friday to raise the personal income tax exemption to $800 starting in 1972 instead of the $750 allowed by the House.

This vote, adding $1.9 billion of benefits for individuals to the $15.5 billion tax cut bill, was a victory for Democrats who have contended the measure is lopsided in favor of business.

It was a defeat for the administration which contends the already big federal deficit will not permit any greater relief for individuals.

The amendment, sponsored by Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., was adopted with votes for 38 Democrats and 2 Republicans. Opposed were 28 Republicans and 9 Democrats.

The Senate also added to the bill on a 47 to 31 vote a $1.5 billion program of extra unemployment compensation benefits in states with jobless totals of at least 6%.

This, too, was opposed by the administration on the grounds of cost.

The $800 exemption would mean a tax cut of about $50 for a family of four with a taxable income of $12,000 as compared with what it would pay with a $750 exemption.

Under present law, the exemption is $650 this year, $700 in 1972, and $750 starting in 1973.

Sen. Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah, Republican floor manager for the bill, declared the business tax cuts in the

Beermann Probably Will Seek Tax Rate Higher Than Exon's

By BOB GUNTHER

Star Staff Writer

Figures released by Secretary of State Allen J. Beermann Friday indicate that he probably will ask the State Board of Equalization Monday to set the state's income and sales tax rates at a figure higher than Gov. J. James Exon's recommended rates.

The information shows that federal income tax paid by Nebraskans in 1971 will drop by 1.4% and by 4.1% in 1972, provided the Senate version of a federal tax cut is enacted.

This would mean that federal income tax collections in 1971 for Nebraska would drop by $7.5 million from the anticipated $540 million before enactment of the proposed federal income tax revision.

Using the 4.1% expected decline in 1972 as a result of the federal tax cut, the original estimate of $574 million in federal taxes would decline by $23.5 million.

About $1 Million Less

If Exon's proposed 13% state income tax rate was accepted, this would result in approximately $1 million less in 1971 than the $70.2 million in state income tax revenue if there was no federal cut.

In 1972, the difference in state income tax revenue between the estimates without figuring in the federal cut and estimates taking into account the anticipated federal tax cut is roughly $3 million.

At 13%, 1972 state income tax revenue before the federal cut would be $74.6 million; after figuring in the reduction due to the federal measure, the state's income tax revenue would be $71.6 million.

Beermann previously had indicated that if revenue declines by $1 million, the 13% income tax rate would have to be raised to at least 14%.

The information was supplied by Deputy Assistant Treasury Secretary Joel Segall in response to a letter from Beermann requesting information on the impact of the federal legislation.

Would Cut State Revenue

Such a tax cut could reduce the flow of revenue into state coffers at current state income tax levels (currently it is 10%), since Nebraskans' state income tax rate is a percentage of the federal tax bite.

Any reduction in federal taxes would produce a corresponding decline in state revenue.

Consequently, the state's tax rates would have to be adjusted upward.

Hassle May Develop

Thus, a major political hassle may develop at Monday's board meeting.

Democrats Exon and Tax Commissioner Bill Peters had favored setting the income tax rates now at 13% and the sales tax at 2.5%. They contended that when the full impact of the federal measure is known the rates can be adjusted.

If the rates were set now, he said, the result could be either a surplus or a deficit in revenue due to a lack of accurate information.

However, the Republicans (Beermann, Auditor Ray A. C. Johnson and Treasurer Wayne Swanson) have the necessary votes to swing the five-member board should Beermann propose a higher tax rate.

Holding the income and sales tax rates at 13.25 was one of Exon's campaign promises.

New York Times
News Summary

(c) New York Times News Service

Washington — President Nixon, at an unscheduled news conference in the White House, announced he would withdraw 45,000 more American soldiers from Vietnam during December and January, leaving 139,000 U.S. troops on Feb. 1. He said decisions on future cutbacks would be based in part on the release of American war prisoners and the prospects of a cease-fire. (More On Page 1.)

General Approval Given

Washington — While there was approval in both houses of Congress of the president's acceleration of troop cutbacks, congressional doves expressed concern that the administration was committing itself to maintaining a residual force in Vietnam. But even that concern fell short of outright criticism.

Participation Limited

United Nations, N.Y. — Chiao Kuan-hua, Peck's chief delegate to the United Nations, made his first visit to the U.N. headquarters building and told Adam Malik, the president of the general assembly, that China may not participate as actively as expected in the current session because she was not yet familiar with the U.N. situation and had a small delegation.

7 Americans Charged In Stock Swindle Case

... $12.5 Million In Stolen Stocks Found

London (UPI) — Seven Americans appeared in court Friday charged with conspiring to sell loot from a multi million dollar Chicago stock theft, and the prosecution sought to link them to a criminal ring based in Los Angeles.

Police said they found $12.5 million worth of stock certificates when Scotland Yard detectives raided a London luxury apartment and arrested the Americans, including two movie producers. The court was told the theft of $39 million in securities was involved, but a federal complaint filed in Los Angeles put the total at $78 million.

The securities, said the prosecution, were "the part of proceeds of a $30 million theft." Police in Britain and the United States are looking for the rest of the haul.

Police sources said the stock theft took place at American Banknote Co. in Chicago last August. The FBI in Chicago said the securities blanks were intended for delivery to four U.S. companies when they were stolen.

The Americans were ordered held in Brixton Jail, an anti-quated prison in a South London suburb. They were told to appear again next Friday in Marlborough Street Court. Under the British legal system for a preliminary hearing, they didn't get a chance to plead guilty or innocent during their 15 minutes in the dock.

Dutch Sailor Shot To Death

Belfast (UPI) — A man with a submachine gun entered a dentist's office Friday and fatally shot a man sitting in the waiting room.

While two other men manned a getaway car and kept watch outside, the killer unerringly entered the waiting room of Dr. Jack Saper in the Roman Catholic Lower Falls area, slipped the submachinegun out from under his coat and fired at point blank range, according to police.

A police spokesman identified the victim as an 18-year-old Dutch sailor. His name was not immediately disclosed.

Runaway Car Hurts 32 Pupils

Laredo, Tex. (UPI) — A runaway car without a driver charged through a first grade classroom, injuring 32 pupils.

Six were hospitalized. The others were released to their parents after receiving first aid. One child underwent emergency surgery and was listed in serious condition.

The children's teacher, Jane James, said most of the children escaped more serious injury because they were away from their desks and grouped around her.

and Scotland Yard took up the chase.

Officers followed the men from London Airport Thursday to the apartment in the fashionable Mayfair district.

After the Americans moved in with their luggage, Scotland Yard men grabbed them.

The men were identified in court as: Rudolph Johnson, 48-year-old movie maker who lives on the French Riviera; film producer Frank Marco Sardo, 35; Charles Samuel Bufalini, 52; Nicholas Avenetti, 44-year-old record producer; James Walker Patinotti, 39, all from California; Terry Sorenson, 29 of Highland Park, Ill., and financier Marion Arthur Denark, 50, who lives in London.

Charged with them was a Londoner, James Henney, 49.

The men appeared in court without lawyers and asked to be released on bail so they could contact legal counselors. Detectives opposed the request and Magistrate John Hooper turned down bail.

Johnson said, "I never met any of these gentlemen before except one I have lived for 20 years in Cannes, France."

Johnson, a massive man with a beard, said he had once made a movie with Sardo and when he heard Sardo was coming to London, "I asked him to bring me some cigarettes."

When he went to the group's apartment to collect them and chat with Sardo, he said, he was arrested in the raid.

A spokesman for the American Bank Note Co. which printed the securities, used to get cash.

Of themselves, the certificates had little value, he said. If they were traded on an exchange, they would have to be authenticated and the fraud would be discovered.

But they could be used as collateral to obtain a loan.

The spokesman said the most common swindle is for the stock thieves to open a bank account and become known to a bank's officers. When the bank relaxes its security, the con men ask for a loan. They offer the stock certificates as collateral to secure the loan.

Divorce Suit Filed Against Burger Head

Chicago (UPI) — Joan Kroc has filed suit for divorce from Ray A. Kroc, multimillionaire chairman of the McDonald's hamburger franchise chain, on grounds of extreme mental cruelty.

In the suit filed in circuit court Thursday, Mrs. Kroc, 43, asked for alimony, court and lawyer costs and the couple's cooperative apartment on Lake Shore Drive, plus its furnishings and paintings.

Kroc, 69, has been divorced twice before and Mrs. Kroc once. They were married in Santa Ynez, Calif., on March 2, 1969.

Hijacked Jetliner Is Airborne Again

Great Falls, Mont. (UPI) — A hijacked Canadian jetliner left here for the second time Friday night under orders of a gunman who was demanding to be flown to Ireland with the ransom money he had collected the first time the plane landed here. All 118 passengers were allowed to leave the plane on the second stop after the hijacker ordered it back to Great Falls to refuel.

At last report early Saturday, the plane, with the hijacker and five crewmen aboard, was circling the airport at Calgary, Alta.

The hijacker claimed to be a member of the Irish Republican Army.

An airline spokesman said one shot was fired shortly after the airplane left Great Falls the first time, but no one was injured.

The gunman said he wanted to go to Ireland.

The gunman, who said he was carrying six sticks of dynamite and was "willing to die for my country," had demanded $1.5 million when he commanded the plane. It was not known how much he was given, but a police matron carried a small attache case to the plane.

He had threatened "to blow the heads of everyone" if he didn't get the money, airport officials said.

A conversation monitored from the plane indicated the hijacker had changed his mind about refueling at Regina, Sask., and instead would return to Great Falls to refuel before flying to Ireland.

The Air Canada DC-8, carrying a crew of nine, refueled, but airport spokesman said the plane could not carry enough fuel to reach Ireland without making another stop.

It was 11:36 p.m. EST when the plane landed at Great Falls the second time.

It had been cleared for takeoff to Regina at 10:30, 28 minutes after it landed the first time.

The plane touched down at Great Falls at 10:12 p.m. EST. The pilot Capt. Vern Emon radioed that the hijacker said he would wait only 15 minutes for the ransom after landing then he would start shooting.

The Air Canada spokesman said the gunman had assured the airline the passengers would be in no immediate danger so long as his instructions were followed.

Great Falls is about 300 miles south of Calgary, where 101 of the passengers boarded.

An Air Canada spokesman said the hijacking occurred about 7:30 p.m. EST — just east of Regina.

At 10 p.m. EST, with an estimated 30 minutes of fuel left aboard the Air Canada DC-8, the plane was circling over the Great Falls airport.

Minutes before, the airline radioed that the hijacker had given only a 15-minute leeway for the stopover here.

"He is giving us 15 minutes before he starts shooting," the aircraft radioed.

FBI agents converged on the airport.

A tower man in Great Falls radioed back to the plane, which was circling at some 20,000 feet. "We're talking to the bank now and in another minute or two the money will be on its way."

The hijacker demanded that a woman bring the money to the airport and let it to him by rope into the airplane, airport officials said.

Goldberg's request, the jurist said.

"Let it be said that in Washington County, justice will be done."

Goldberg said he would seek an appeal, but did not indicate on what grounds.

Sweet had instructed the jury that they could bring in three possible verdicts — innocent, guilty of first degree murder, or guilty of second degree murder.

Martin is the first of five suspects to be brought to trial for the murder of the Yablonskis, who were shot to death in their Clarksville, Pa., home Dec. 31, 1969.

Martin, who has a nine-year criminal record of 75 robberies and burglaries, pleaded guilty when the verdict was announced in the courtroom of Judge Charles Sweet. Martin otherwise showed no emotion, but nervously shifted a pen he was holding from one hand to another.

Judge Sweet then called a recess until 9:30 a.m. Saturday at the request of defense attorney Mark Goldberg, who said he needed more time to prepare evidence to present to the jury when it meets to determine whether Martin will be sentenced to life in prison or death in the electric chair.

Exxon Gives Veto Pledge On Excessive Spending

By DON BEMAN
United Press International
Gov. J. James Exxon Friday renewed his pledge to veto spending legislation which would endanger his hold-the-line financial policy.

"I will veto any appropriation, and the Legislature will have to pass it over my veto, that will exceed the amount of money which can be raised by a 13% income tax rate and a 2.5% sales tax rate or its equivalent," the governor said.

Due to pending congressional tax cut legislation at the federal level, the governor may have to increase the Nebraska rates in order to bring in the same amount of money as would be realized from present national rates.

Homestead Tax Exemptions OK'd Average $23.28 Each

Homestead tax exemptions approved in 1970 averaged $23.28 each. State Tax Commissioner William Peters said Friday.

According to figures released by the State Revenue Department, there were 245,871 homestead tax exemptions approved in the state's 93 counties at a total cost of $5,724,436.

The program was begun by the 1969 Legislature and, during 1969, exemptions averaged about $22.

Pesticide Containers Specifying Methods Of Disposal Are Urged

The Legislative Council Interim Study Committee on Pesticides wound up its public hearings Friday with a proposal to require pesticide containers to specify methods for disposal of the containers.

The proposal was advanced by Sen. Maurice Kremer of Aurora, who asked committee legal counsel, James Dunlevy, to prepare a draft of a bill which the committee might sponsor in the 1972 Legislative session.

The measure outlined by Kremer Friday would require that a pesticide container label must carry information on the method of disposing of the used container and leftover pesticide along with the information that into deciding whether to reverse its decision of this year's session on the earmarking of an increase in the state cigarette tax for three building projects.

Regret Predicted
At the end of the session, the governor predicted the lawmakers would eventually regret the action.

Exxon said recent talks with lawmakers indicates a number are shifting over to his way of thinking that the money should go into the general fund, "including some of those who voted for earmarking."

"Several of the senators have indicated to me they now understand my position and have also indicated support in the next session of the Legislature" to rechannel the funds, the governor said.

On the overall budget, the governor said he has completed a preliminary review of all requests from the various state agencies.

Reductions Made

He said some "obvious and substantial" reductions were made and also some "tentative and well justified increases."

But overall, he reported, there won't be any slack and he added that construction funds would be on the shortest end.

"We are going to be in a quite limited position as far as capital construction funds are concerned," he said.

However, he did single out two projects at the University of Nebraska which he said would probably receive favorable action.

The two projects include the renovation and enlargement of Love Library and a new Home Economics Building.

Failure To Follow Guidelines Would Be A Violation Of The Law.

Kremer's proposal came after several committee witnesses, along with Committee Chairman Sen. Loran Schmit of David City, voiced fear over the effects of haphazard disposal of pesticide containers and small amounts of pesticides.

Hugh Palmer, representing the Nebraska Agricultural Chemicals Association, suggested before the committee Friday that the most practical method of disposing of containers would be a landfill burying operation which doesn't endanger ground water tables.

Committee members also voiced concern that school children were not being taught enough about ecology and the committee decided to sponsor a resolution in the 1972 Legislature to ask the University of Nebraska Extension Division provide some type of training in the field.

Maresh Plans Bill On Trees

State Sen. Richard Maresh of Milligan said Friday he will sponsor legislation in the upcoming session of the Legislature to provide funds to encourage the planting of trees during the 1972 Arbor Day Centennial.

"I hope we can plant one million trees next year," he said.

April 22, 1972, will be the 100th year that Arbor Day has been celebrated since its inception by J. Sterling Morton in Nebraska City.

Exon Supports It

Although he said he had no cost estimates, Maresh said the idea has Gov. J. James Exxon's "wholehearted support."

Exactly what species will be made available Maresh said he did not know.

However, he indicated that he will be meeting with Economic Development Director Stanley Matzke and the state forester to discuss tree selection Tuesday.

The program, which at this stage he said is still flexible, will concentrate on making trees available to villages, civic groups and schools.

"It could possibly be worked through the county treasurers' officers," he said.

Maresh said a different species may be recommended for various parts of the state.

The senator said a different species may be recommended for various parts of the state.

"Whatever is chosen, you can be sure it won't be the elm," he added.

Kennedy Vows To Carry On Battle For Small Hospital

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

"Bureaucratic nitpicking" prompted State Sen. Thomas Kennedy Friday to carry his fight to save his hometown hospital in Newman Grove to President Nixon.

"They're (the federal government) taking away train and airplane service from rural America, lowering grain prices," the 57-year-old said, "and now they want to close one of the most personal, dedicated hospitals in the state."

Kennedy said in his letter he asked for a hearing to determine whether a federal law designed to alleviate small hospitals' plights applies to Newman Grove.

The federal law states that all hospitals must have a registered nurse on duty at all times.

Newman Grove, population 880, does not have one on duty 24 hours. However, three years ago Kennedy with the help of Sen. Carl T. Curtis managed to have the bill amended so as to exempt small hospitals, and in particular, Newman Grove's.

Burlison Amendment

This provision, called the Burlison Amendment, says an exception may be granted if other health facilities are available within a reasonable distance. It is 25 miles to the nearest health facility from Newman Grove.

But earlier the Social Security Administration threatened the hospital with a loss of its medicare funds for noncompliance with the federal regulations.

Kennedy, chairman of the hospital's board of directors, said this would force the hospital to close.

Later the hospital was granted a 90-day reprieve after a hearing. The probation is scheduled to end Feb. 1.

Officials who Kennedy declined to name suggested to him that the only way to get the matter straightened out would be to go to court.

Why Hire Attorney?

"I can't understand," Kennedy said, "why the taxpayers of rural America, who have taken a one-third cut in feed grain prices, should have to hire an attorney to put a law passed by Congress into effect."

"We haven't got that kind of money," he added.

"After all, President Nixon, who signed the bill, and Senators Curtis and Hruska, who are lawyers, should know whether the law applies.

"I want to know why the bureaucrats won't put a law passed by Congress and signed by the President into effect," he said.

Districts Say Heat Won't Hurt Ecology

No agency has yet tackled the job of basin-wide planning to prevent such a possibility.

The licensing and regulation of direct emissions (including thermal releases) into navigable streams and their tributaries is being undertaken by the federal government under the revitalized authority of an 1890 rivers and harbors act.

The Army Corps of Engineers issues a license after ecological approval has been gained from the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) and the affected state water quality agencies.

Approval ultimately hinges on compliance with state water quality standards.

However, present state standards, now falling into line with EPA guidelines, are still beset with problems of interpretation, enforcement and short manpower for monitoring emissions.

EVENTS

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLLER

Among events of interest is the continuing effort of State Senator John DeCamp in behalf of a state lottery to finance new prison and probation programs and the construction of educational facilities. We suspect that when all the arguments on this are boiled down, the matter resolves itself in the area of personal likes and dislikes.

DeCamp makes the point that a lottery is no different from many other games of chance, many of which are common tools for church fund-raising, etc. In other words, he does not see a lottery as a sinful thing, as he puts it.

We share this point of view with him. It isn't necessarily a sinful thing and those who believe otherwise could simply refuse to participate in it. As DeCamp notes, purchase of a lottery ticket would be entirely voluntary.

His argument might well be bolstered by the opinion that a lot of people are already spending a lot of money foolishly and some of it might as well go for a lottery that has a good purpose behind it. What's the difference if a man wants to put a few bucks a year into a lottery when he is already flitting away more than that on one thing or another he doesn't need?

This isn't said facetiously, because few people can say they never really spend any of their income foolishly or on non-essentials. Perhaps much of the lottery income would be money that would not otherwise be used constructively, anyway.

DeCamp also argues convincingly in regard to the practicality of his suggestion. Nebraska needs funds for the things the senator mentions, as well as many other purposes and there is no question that a lottery would provide substantial income.

The senator further notes that the lottery would be a painless way of raising money. This is probably true, too, since it would operate with something like a fifty-cent chance on the numbers and fifty cents isn't going to break most people.

Figures supplied by DeCamp show that in New York and New Jersey, the latter operating a very successful lottery, almost 90 per cent of the tickets are purchased by individuals with an income of more than $7,000 a year. Assuming his statistics are true, they are surprising.

We have nothing but opinion but it has been that the lottery would tend to obtain money from those least able to afford it. Low-income people might be tempted by the chance of a big win while having nothing to spare for purchase of a number.

We still wonder if the lottery would not rely heavily upon those who could not afford it, even if their income were average or above. People can be in financial difficulty regardless of the level of their income and if they look to a game of chance to bail them out, they will meet with no success.

But granting all of DeCamp's arguments, the lottery just does not appeal much to us. Perhaps he is right that its assets outweigh its liabilities but it is something of an indictment of our system, it seems, to have to rely upon such a scheme to finance our government.

What disturbs us about it is that it constitutes an admission that citizens are not prepared to assume their responsibilities as taxpayers. Sometimes you are tempted to come to such a conclusion but it just cannot be the basis of our future.

We are not heavily opposed to the lottery and we will admit that, perhaps, DeCamp's practicality has more merit than our search for something better. But the answer to problems is to be found in the leadership of the state and the citizenship of all its people.

A lottery is a kind of fooling ourselves, a kind of clever way of getting something for nothing and it simply goes against the grain for this reason.

Success of a lottery should leave people a little chagrined that we could collect funds in this manner that would not be available to us through regular tax channels. We are not against DeCamp's pursuing the matter but we cannot see ourselves as advocates of his proposal.

New Dictionaries
For The Little Folk

NEW YORK — Well, now they're out with a dictionary for preschoolers and—except for the fact that it failed our only preschooler right off the bat—I have to give it a rave review.

As far as grandparents are concerned, it's the greatest. Keeps toddlers happy for hours. Well . . . minutes, anyway.

How many times, say, have you searched through a magazine for a picture of an "arf-arf"? With any luck, you'll find one—eventually. Then all you have to do is remember where it was, because in a few minutes you'll be expected to produce it again. Instantly.

Fish are a little harder to find. And bugs are really tough. But it just so happens that "bugs" are very big at our house these days.

Since she's just learning to talk (SHE knows thousands of words—but WE can understand only 80 of them), she finds a surprise or two every time we "read" the dictionary.

She has discovered, for instance, that "click-clicks" are really "scissors" . . . that a goldfish and a whale are both "fissies" . . . and that when we get to "ice cream" that calls for a short recess to the kitchen.

Once she gets all 160 words in the first book down pat, she'll be ready for "Primary Dictionary—Two," which has 660 words, 200 color pictures, and real "word" definitions—in language from the six-to-eight set.

They really are very well done. A great addition to any grandparent's coffee table. And they'd make great stocking-stuffers.

There's even an extra plus in feeling, somehow, not quite so goofy playing "Where's the kitty-kitty?" when you're looking in a real dictionary.

Phase II Pricing Complex

Paring the Price Commission's guidelines down to the bone, the script reads in twenty-five words or less: Prices can rise only if costs incurred after today's end of Phase I rise and additional profits are justified only if sales volumes increase.

After that generalization, the Price Commission guidelines issued Thursday read somewhat like an esoteric economics treatise aimed to an untrained eye.

A good many questions are yet unanswered. The consumer will be confused about what is an approved price boost and what is not. The list of exempted goods and services—which now make up one-fifth of the average American's cost of living—may grow.

What can be expected next week when the guidelines—aimed at holding the national inflation rate from two to three per cent a year—go into effect? "This means that some prices will go down," said Price Commission Chairman C. Jackson Grayson. "Some will not increase at all. Some will go up more than 2.5%."

That's about as specific as Grayson can be at this point, except that under the new orders, retail prices will be frozen only until freeze period prices are posted for comparison and rents on existing houses and apartments will be frozen until a rent board hammers out more permanent rent guidelines.

One thing is certain, however: the wage and price control programs must work hand-in-hand. If wages stabilize and prices increase inordinately, the wage-earner takes it on the chin. If wages increase and prices stabilize, the businessman is murdered.

Aside from the giant corporations, which must seek prior approval of price increases, the commission policies rely heavily on voluntary compliance. It will take compliance on the part of the average businessman or provider of services to make the program work. And the sellers of exempted items should also be expected to honor the spirit of price control.

One other feature of the program is significant. Firms will not be allowed to increase prices to get relief, retroactively, for costs that might have gone up during or before the freeze. This is as it should be. Retroactive relief for business, like retroactive relief for the wage-earner, would defeat the economic stabilization program.

Sec. Hardin Resigns

It seems inconceivable that President Nixon could think he would stand himself in good stead with the nation's farmers by purging Sec. of Agriculture Clifford Hardin.

To be sure, a number of corn belt Republicans warned the President that Hardin—as representative of a policy that is dealing ineffectively with the farm price problem—would hurt GOP chances in 1972. But most farm leaders appreciated, at least, Hardin's dedicated service while heading the department for some 35 months.

If the former Nebraskan's performance can be faulted, it probably would be on the grounds that his personal style of doing things prevented him from publicly being the tough, outspoken spokesman for agriculture that farmers want in that position. But there apparently is little understanding of the pressures—outside and above—put on the secretary and too little credit was given Hardin for his behind-the-scenes efforts.

Rehnquist's Case Differs From Others Disputed;
Rejection Should Not Come On Political Basis

CLEVELAND — The spectacle of Sen. Edward Kennedy defending the reputation of William Rehnquist against allegations by Joseph Rauh of the Americans for Democratic Action suggests the painful dilemma in which liberals and civil libertarians have been placed by Rehnquist's nomination to the Supreme Court.

This nomination is not like that of Clement Haynsworth, whom President Nixon earlier tried to put on the court. Judge Haynsworth was not confirmed by the Senate on the ostensible grounds that his record on the bench showed a lack of perception of possible conflict of interest situations.

Nor is the Rehnquist case similar to that of Nixon's other rejected nominee, G. Harrold Carswell. Judge Carswell was found to have made misstatements to a Senate committee, and his confirmation hearings disclosed a glaring lack of qualifications for the Supreme Court.

The Rehnquist matter is not even like that of Lewis Powell, whom Nixon has also named to the court.

There's even an extra plus in feeling, somehow, not quite so goofy playing "Where's the kitty-kitty?" when you're looking in a real dictionary.

Powell is a pillar of the southern establishment, a good credential in the Senate; he is 64 years old and his tenure on the court will be limited by that: he is not expected by most observers to become a powerful leader within the court.

Rehnquist is a horse of a very different color. At 47, he can look forward to a long and active tenure on the bench. Moreover, his record is that of a hard-working and vigorous champion of conservative political causes, both in Arizona and within the Nixon administration. Persons in and out of the administration who know his work credit him with superior intellect and skill in the law.

Thus Rehnquist on the court is altogether likely to become a driving force for the principles he espouses. There are those who believe that as the years go along, he will be a more formidable leader than Chief Justice Burger in the conservative wing of the court.

It is no wonder, then, that liberals and libertarians are desperately casting about for means of defeating the Rehnquist nomination in the Senate. Rehnquist's record of opposition to civil rights measures, his strong advocacy of state powers that would threaten Bill of Rights guarantees—at least what many people passionately believe to be guarantees—his youth, and his obvious leadership qualities might alter the course of the Supreme Court for decades to come.

what many people passionately believe to be guarantees—his youth, and his obvious leadership qualities might alter the course of the Supreme Court.

But the hard fact is that no one here has as yet produced any evidence of the kind of ethical tangles that ruined Judge Haynsworth's chances—and before that led to the resignation of Abe Fortas from the court; nor has anyone been able to identify misstatements like those that sank Judge Carswell, let alone a lack of legal or intellectual qualifications.

It was, in fact, on the matter of Rehnquist's integrity that Kennedy rebuked Rauh. The latter had suggested that the nominee had been less than candid in denying ever having been a member of the John Birch Society. The senator could hardly be sympathetic to a man of Rehnquist's views, but he insisted that the nominee's basic integrity was unchallenged.

So the real question before the Senate is whether it can, or should, reject Rehnquist solely because of his political views. On the one hand, the writers of the Constitution, in giving the

PATTIE MALONE

They Had A Dream

Out of the miseries of slavery, the Negro spiritual emerged. Sometimes called "sorrow songs," spirituals were pure American folk music, created spontaneously by southern blacks in the religious fervor of a Sunday prayer meeting.

In the days before the Civil War, these songs were an intrinsic and living thread in the fabric of black religious life. With the changes which came after emancipation, however, spirituals were in danger of dying out.

A major share of the credit for rescuing this body of unwritten music for posterity belongs to a group of young students from Fisk University who were known as the "Jubilee Singers."

The Jubilee Singers introduced spirituals to white America and to Europe in a series of concerts over a span of seven years. They became universally popular.

A total of 24 students sang with the Jubilee Singers at various times during the life of the group. Twenty of them were former slaves, three the children of slaves.

Most of them had grown up with the sound of spirituals ringing in their ears. Pattie Malone learned them and sang them on the Cedars Plantation in Athens, Ala., where she was born into slavery in the spring of 1858.

Pattie, who possessed a rich contralto voice, was a typical member of the Jubilee Singers. She expected to spend her life in slavery as her mother had before her. But the war changed all of that.

When it ended, she got her first chance for an education when a school for blacks was opened in Athens. Pattie then was about eight.

To support herself, she had to work before and after classes in the home of her former master. Recognizing her zeal for school, Pattie's principal sent her to Fisk to study piano.

When she died in 1896, she was buried in the cemetery of the school.

The decision to send the Jubilee Singers on tour was a desperate gamble to keep Fisk open.

After a faltering beginning in 1871, the Jubilee Singers soon gained fame and fortune for the school. On their first tour, the

At the time, Fisk began in the primary grades and continued through the college level. Founded at Nashville, Tenn., in 1866 as a Christian school to educate emancipated blacks, Fisk faced a struggle for survival in its first decade.

They had all of Europe and America humoring such immortals as "Swing Low Sweet Chariot," "Steal Away Jesus," "Deep River" and "Nobody Knows the Trouble I Seen."

Pattie joined the group in Germany in 1871 replacing contralto Jennie Jackson, compelled by illness to return home.

Pattie remained with the group until it was disbanded in 1878. At that time, the Jubilee Singers had earned more than $100,000 for their school as well as gifts of books, equipment and supplies.

Pattie died in 1896. She was buried in the cemetery of the school. On their first tour, the singers earned Fisk $20,000.

In the next seven years, the Jubilee Singers traveled to Europe twice and sang at innumerable concerts, before Queen Victoria and the crowned heads of Germany and the Netherlands.

They had all of Europe and America humoring such immortals as "Swing Low Sweet Chariot," "Steal Away Jesus," "Deep River" and "Nobody Knows the Trouble I Seen."

Location Of Hitler Deputy Discounted

VIENNA—A lurid footnote has been appended to the history of both World War II and the cold war by General Reinhard Gehlen, once Hitler's military espionage boss for Soviet affairs and subsequently, until 1968, head of West German intelligence.

Gehlen, now retired, has written personal memoirs in which he contends that Martin Bormann, Hitler's deputy, was actually a Russian secret agent and, after the Nazi surrender, took refuge in the U.S.S.R. where he died two or three years ago.

Although these sensational allegations occupy only a brief space in Gehlen's account, they have drawn enormous attention to his book and helped bring the author very fancy publication offers. Nevertheless, the story seems so incredible, emerging after years of research on documentary material, that I asked an eminent expert Nazi-hunter what he thought of it.

He is Simon Wiesenthal, director of the small but persistent Jewish Documentation Center in Vienna and a survivor of Mauthausen concentration camp. For 28 years he has been ferreting out war criminals hiding under aliases in strange places. Largely as a result of his detective work, Adolf Eichmann was discovered, seized, tried and condemned by the Israelis.

Wiesenthal considers Gehlen's account of Bormann nonsense and makes the following assertions on the basis of his own massive file on the Nazi boss: He is "known" to have been smuggled to a Franciscan monastery in Rome after the war and, with the aid of a former Croatian fascist diplomat, from there to South America; he has been definitely spotted in several South American places since then, although it is not certain whether he is still alive (he would now be 71). This makes it impossible for Bormann to have spent almost a quarter of a century in the Soviet Union.

Gehlen, now retired, has written personal memoirs in which he contends that Martin Bormann, Hitler's deputy, was actually a Russian secret agent and, after the Nazi surrender, took refuge in the U.S.S.R. where he died two or three years ago.

It is inconceivable, Wiesenthal argues, that the Russians would have kept Bormann very long after he was sentenced to death in absentia at Nuremberg. The risk of exposure was too great.

Several dozen high Soviet intelligence officials executed as a Western informant. All would necessarily have known the Bormann secret and would surely have mentioned it since they told the allies everything they knew.

State Water Resources Director Dan Jones Jr. has been awarded a life membership in the National Water Resources Association for his contributions to the beneficial development of water resources.

Jones is only the second Nebraskan to be so honored.

The first was the late C. Petrus Peterson, Lincoln attorney and state legislator.

MISS JUDY BOWMASTER

Of special interest to Nebraska Wesleyan campus circles this morning is the announcement made by Mr. and Mrs. Ralph J. Bowmaster of Seward, of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Judy, to Steven Krueger, son of Dr. and Mrs. Jack Krueger of Kansas City, Kan.

The wedding will take place on Sunday, Jan. 2.

Miss Bowmaster will be graduated in December from Nebraska Wesleyan University where she is a member of Willard sorority.

Mr. Krueger is a junior in pre-med at Nebraska Wesleyan and is a member of Theta Chi fraternity.

Wedding At Home

At a 5 o'clock ceremony on Friday evening, Nov. 12, the marriage of Miss Lynne Kay Whitemore, daughter of Mrs. Rodney K. Whitemore, and the late Mr. Whitemore, to Kenneth L. Felsing, son of George Felsing and Mrs. Fred Kast, both of Lincoln, was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents. The Rev. James Hansen read the lines of the service.

Mrs. James Kacmarik, the matron of honor, and Mrs. Marshall Whitemore, sister-in-law of the bride, the bridesmatron, were the only attendants.

Richard Edwards served as best man, and seating the guests was Marshall Whitemore.

The bride appeared in a frock of pale blue, designed in the Empire mode. A motif of scallops contoured the neckline, and the scallops were repeated on the cuffs of the full sleeves, and at the hem of the daytime length skirt. Pinned to her shoulder was a corsage of blue carnations and white roses.

The bride, a former student at the University of Nebraska, is careering in the State Department of Education. Mr. Felsing recently completed his service with the U.S. Army, including a tour of duty in Vietnam, and is employed in Lincoln.

Abby: needs help

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY. I've read you for years, but this is my first letter to a newspaper column.

I love and care for an aging parent. She is in her eighties and requires constant care. Bathing, feeding, etc. I do this routinely, 365 days a year.

My husband and I haven't had a vacation in 11 years. I get a "sitter" for a few hours occasionally, but it's expensive, so don't it too often need dental work, a physical, a chance to shop for clothes and shoes.

Those who bear the full responsibility of an aging parent, or a severely handicapped relative, know how mind-wearied and bone-tired one can become in caring for that individual.

There are lots of people who are looking for hobbies to occupy their free hours. Why don't they ever think of telephoning people like me and saying, "I'll come over tomorrow so you can be free for a few hours."

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose a stamped, addressed envelope.

Opening lead — ten of clubs.

Bridge is a game of probabilities. You make a certain bid because you think it will probably turn out better than any other bid, you make a certain play because you think it will probably turn out better than any other play. If your judgment in gauging probabilities is good, you will do well, for you cannot have a better ally than the law of probabilities.

Assume you're in six spades and West leads a club. Of course West may have the king, in which case it would be all right to finesse, but your judgement should tell you that it is better not to finesse.

At best you have a 50% chance to win the finesse, while if you go up with the ace you have a far better chance of escaping a club loser by playing three rounds of diamonds, planning to discard a club on the third diamond. The probability of finding the suit divided 4-3 is 62%.

But when you take the ace of clubs and lead the A-K-Q of diamonds, East ruffs and you are forced to overruff. You enter dummy with a heart and play a fourth diamond, hoping that East will either be out of trumps or be compelled to ruff with the ace. Unfortunately, East ruffs low again and once more you overruff.

Now to show your versatility, you switch to a different method of attack. You lead the K-Q-J of hearts, hoping to find that suit divided 4-4, in which case you can salvage the club loser by discarding three clubs.

Hollywood Heights Meadow Lane

Lincoln's suburban residents might very appropriately adopt as their theme, a song which was popular several years ago and which began with the premise "If time were not a moving thing . . ." If it were not, said persons would find themselves in the enviable position of being able to extend a moment for any number of reasons which might catch their fancy. Just think of all of the spare minutes that might be conjured up if such a situation did exist, not to mention the pleasurable events that might be prolonged ad infinitum.

Alas, however, time keeps ticking away and, by all indications, will continue to do so, thus forcing Lincoln inhabitants to do what they have been doing; that is, squeeze their many daily activities into a 24-hour-a-day-a-feat that is frequently difficult to accomplish.

Thanksgiving weekend will, of course, be a busy one for virtually everyone, and included among those who will be spending the holiday away from Lincoln are Hollywood Heights residents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Wirtz and children, Terri Lee, Toni Marie and Danny. The Wirtz family will accompany Mr. and Mrs. John Janovy, Jr. and children, Cindy, Jena and John III to Norman, Okla. where they will (hopefully) cheer the Nebraska Cornhuskers on to a gridiron victory over the Sooners on Thanksgiving Day.

During their stay in Norman, the two families will be guests at the home of Mr. Janovy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Janovy.

This weekend will be perhaps the most festive of the year at the Meadow Lane home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Neeman. At any rate, it is a time for celebrating, as two of the Neeman children observe their birthdays. Miss Lisa Neeman joined the ranks of ten-year olds yesterday; and her brother, Todd, will become an eight-year-old on Sunday.

Yesterday evening, Lisa was the guest of honor at a slumber party held in observance of the special occasion. Included on the guest list were a group of Lisa's friends including Melodee Gibbs, Carole McPherson, Barbara Cranston, Terri West, Shauna Culbertson and Vicki Douglass.

Tomorrow afternoon, Todd will be the center of attention when a number of his friends gather at the Neeman home to wish him a happy birthday. Terry Miller, Aaron Cranston, Bryan Higham, Doug Carlson, Eric Winters and Fred Roth will attend the party which will have a "cowboys and Indians" theme.

This evening, Lisa and Todd will share honors at a family dinner which will be attended by their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Neeman and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Falls all of Omaha; and, of course, their brothers, Bruce and Craig.

Entertaining out-of-town visitors this weekend will be Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Nelson who will have as their guests, Mr. Nelson's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Nelson and daughters, Mehssa, Angela and Elizabeth. The Nelson's will arrive in Lincoln later today, and will return home Sunday evening.

This morning, we'd also like to say a word of welcome to one of the city's newest suburban residents. He is Master William Chandler Fenton, and he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Karl Fenton.

The young man made his world debut on Monday, Nov. 1; and when he arrived home, he was greeted by his sisters, Lynne and Laura, and his brother, Alex. Completing his family circle are his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Hendrickson of Walla Walla, Wash.; and Edward Fenton of St. Louis, Mo.

Incidentally, we understand that the new arrival's paternal grandfather plans a visit to Lincoln in the very near future for the purpose of getting acquainted with the newest member of his family.

Friday Ceremony

The wedding of Miss Kathryn R. Renfro and Frank A. Lundy took place at 6:30 o'clock on Friday evening, Nov. 12, at the Unitarian Church. The Rev. Charles S. Stephen solemnized the ceremony.

Miss Jane Stewart was the maid of honor and the bride's only attendant.

Paul R. Lundy of Boulder, Colo., served as best man.

After Nov. 22, Mr. Lundy and his bride will be residing in Lincoln.

The bride is a graduate of Colorado College and the University of Denver where she is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority. She now is associate director of the University of Nebraska libraries.

Mr. Lundy studied at the University of Southern California and the University of Chicago, and has degrees from Stanford University at Palo Alto, Calif., and the University of California at Berkeley. He now is Emeritus Director of the University of Nebraska libraries.

Late Autumn Bride

The marriage of Miss Donna Marie Zahourek, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Zahourek of Crete to William A. Klopp, son of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Klopp, took place at St. James Catholic Church in Crete on Friday evening Oct. 22, with the Rev. Mr. Kotz of the Sacred Heart Catholic Church in Crete officiating at the 6 o'clock service.

The three attendants were Mrs. Ray Zahourek of Wahoo, who was her sister-in-law's matron of honor; maid of honor Miss Rebecca Pavish of Crete, and Miss Mary Wissink, the bridesmaid.

Robert F. Crumb served as best man, and the groomsmen and ushers included Raymond Zahourek of Wahoo, James Palmer, Jamie Pegram, Steve Burbach, and Daniel Zahourek of Crete.

The bride's gown was fashioned of velvet and Venetian lace. The lace fashioned the wedding band neckline and the cuffed Bishop sleeves of the Empire bodice beneath which the skirt was an A-line silhouette. The lace was repeated to border her cotillion-length mantilla, and she carried a bouquet of white roses.

Mr. Klopp and his bride will reside in Crete. The bride attended Reece and Sybil School of Handicrafts, and Mr. Klopp is careering in Lincoln.

No. 1 Huskers To Give KSU 1st Sellout Of 1971

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Manhattan, Kan. — When Nebraska takes the field here Saturday afternoon for its 1:30 p.m. kickoff with Kansas State, coach Bob Devaney's Huskers will have brought more than their No. 1 ranking with them.

They'll also have brought enough fans to give the Kansas State Stadium its first sellout of the season with a capacity crowd of 42,000 expected, many of them wearing red, hoping to see their Huskers extend the season log to 10-0, an unbeaten string to 29 straight and a winning streak to 20 in a row.

Those Nebraska fans, who didn't start making the short jaunt here until the decade of the 60s have yet to see the Huskers lose here.

But those, who have been here the past two times, have had a scare put into them.

Kansas State hasn't beaten the Huskers here since 1959 when they scored a 29-14 triumph, but in the last two NU appearances here, the Huskers have squeaked out victories by only two and three points.

In 1967, the Huskers needed a field goal by Bill Bomberger in the closing minutes of a rain-soaked game to pull out a 16-14 victory. And in 1968, Nebraska eked out a 10-7 margin.

This year the Wildcats' dreams may not be as lofty as those of the Huskers, who have dreams of extending that unbeaten string, protecting a No. 1 ranking and a chance at a third straight Big Eight championship.

Kansas State, meanwhile, whose dreams of a Big Eight title a year ago went up in a 51-13 blaze at Lincoln a year ago, can dream only of a possible share of a first division finish in the Big Eight and a winning season — if they can upset the Huskers to make their season mark 5-5 with a game remaining with Memphis State next week and to wind up their league campaign at 3-4.

It's that possible upset that the Huskers, a 33-point favorite, must guard against along with guarding against another dream — that of Oklahoma on Thanksgiving Day.

Looking ahead has not been a problem thus far for the Huskers and Devaney claims, "It's not going to start being a problem this week."

Most of this year's NU seniors were around as freshmen in 1968 when Kansas State, an underdog, ambushed the Huskers, 12-0, in Lincoln to spoil a Nebraska Homecoming weekend.

Kansas State doesn't have the impressive team statistical marks that the Huskers have with NU ranking No. 1 in all four defensive categories in the Big Eight and either first or second in all four departments on offense.

Nor do they have the all-American candidates the Huskers do in the likes of offensive guard Dick Rupert and defensive tackle Larry Jacobson.

But in the past two weeks Kansas State has been impressive in their own way with victories over Missouri and Oklahoma State. And their own way has been the old way.

After floundering through the early season games trying to use a running attack and the sprint-out passing of quarterback Dennis Morrison, coach Vince Gibson went back to the pro-set and made Morrison a dropback passer ala Lynn Dickey.

It has worked with Morrison throwing for an average of nearly 300 yards per game in the last three outings, causing Gibson to remark, "Right now, he's throwing as well as Dickey did."

When Dickey faced Nebraska a year ago that wasn't very good as he threw seven pass interceptions in the 51-13 loss.

Nebraska is leading the league this year by a wide margin in pass interceptions with 23.

—OMAHA NORTH BEATEN—

Bellevue Captures Metro Crown, 13-8

By VIRGIL PARKER
Prep Sports Writer

Omaha — The Bellevue Chieftans, clinging to a chance for the No. 1 rating among Nebraska's Class A clubs, fought from behind to score a fourth quarter touchdown to squeeze out a 13-8 football victory over Omaha North in the Metro League championship at Burke High stadium here Friday night.

In the closely contested title clash, North piled up a sizeable statistical edge during a scoreless first half.

But coach Len Bond's Vikings saw a field goal attempt foiled by a bad center snap after reaching the Bellevue 14 the first time they had the ball and lost possession on a fumble at the Bellevue four-yard line early in the second quarter.

Bellevue, recording just five first downs to ten for North in the first half never got closer than the Vikings' 32.

But it was a different Bellevue club that took the kickoff to open the second half, marching 67 yards on a sustained drive to tally the game's first TD.

The bull-like charges of fullback Danny Walker highlighted the march. He carried on nine of the 11 plays it took to get down to the North 17.

Then, with the Viking defense pulled in, Bellevue quarterback Frank Franco headed around right end to sweep the distance.

Mark Hawkinson added the extra point kick and coach Bill James' Chieftans led 7-0.

At the outset of the fourth quarter North, paced by Dane Washington's 25-yard scamper, moved 68 yards in ten plays to score.

Faking the extra point kick, quarterback Mike Dambrosia took the snap and darted around left end to give North a 8-7 edge.

Though held on its next possession, Bellevue made good on its final chance.

Taking over at midfield after a short North punt, the Chieftans with Walker again carrying on six of nine plays, reached the North 28.

Frankie, this time sweeping left on the keeper play, outran the North secondary to produce the final count with just 1:44 remaining.

Bellevue, No. 2 behind Lincoln East in the latest Class A ratings, finishes the season with a 9-1 record.

Both Bellevue and East (8-1), No. 1 last week and the other contender for top state honors, suffered their only setbacks of the campaign to Lincoln Southeast.

Viet Troops Accidentally Hit By U.S. Helicopter Gunships

Saigon (P) — U.S. Army helicopter gunships supporting a South Vietnamese army battalion accidentally killed 8 government troops and wounded 21, the U.S. Command reported Friday.

The incident occurred Thursday about 280 miles northeast of Saigon. Although an investigation is under way, the U.S. Command said the blame squarely on South Vietnamese ground commanders. It said the gunships "placed ordnance on targets as directed by ARVN forces on the ground."

Field reports said the gunships made four or five passes firing rockets and miniguns before they were called off by South Vietnamese officers. There were no U.S. advisers on the ground with the South Vietnamese battalion.

It was the fourth such accident in the past six weeks. U.S. bombers killed 19 South Vietnamese troops and wounded 36 in three separate incidents last month along the Cambodian border northwest of Saigon. In two of the incidents, the U.S. Command said the targets were cleared by South Vietnamese ground commanders.

The Saigon command reported that terrorists set off a mine at a market place in the Mekong Delta 65 miles southwest of Saigon, killing 4 civilians and wounding 13.

Associated Press correspondent Robin Mannock reported from Phnom Penh that Cambodian troops trying to relieve the besieged garrison at Rumbong, 50 miles northeast of the capital, still were stymied Friday.

Rumbong has been surrounded by the North Vietnamese 9th Division for 2½ weeks. Radio messages said some of the more than 400 wounded troops in Rumbong are dying from lack of medical care. There has been no way to evacuate them since the siege began Oct. 26.

Field reports said a Cambodian air force T28 bomber was shot down on the northeastern front.

A Cambodian command spokesman said 2 Cambodians were killed and 28 wounded in a second day of fighting near the army's signal training center 10 miles southwest of the capital.

Some U.S. officers believing the incidents arise from poor command and control by South Vietnamese leaders, who are sometimes unaware of the exact position of their troops.

A hundred miles farther south on the central coast, enemy forces ambushed a five-truck American convoy, killing one soldier and wounding two. The U.S. Command reported one truck was heavily damaged by rocket-propelled grenades and automatic weapons fire. Enemy losses in the 30-minute skirmish were unknown.

An American F105 fighter-bomber escorting 52 strategic bombers on a mission over the Ho Chi Minh trail in Laos was diverted to hit an enemy radar site inside North Vietnam after the radar began tracking the American planes. It was the fourth strike inside North Vietnam in the past six days and the 75th this year.

SUSPECT ARRESTED

Police officers armed with shotguns escort from a wooded area in southwest Atlanta, Ga., a man believed to be one of three wanted in connection with the shooting of an Atlanta policeman. Police said officer W. H. Thomas was shot three times during a routine check.

Co-ops Must Make Good On $18 Million In Pledges

Bismarck, N.D. (P) — Rural electric cooperatives in eight states apparently will have to make good on pledges to loan over $18 million to Basin Electric Power Cooperative.

The pledges were made in January 1969 to supplement a $97 million loan made by the Rural Electrification Administration to Basin Electric to finance construction of a 400,000 kilowatt addition to Basin Electric's power generating plant near Stanton, N.D.

REA official Donald Grant told some 400 delegates attending Basin Electric's annual meeting at Bismarck that the federal agency might be able to help finance an anticipated $35 million in cost overruns on the construction, but cannot finance the pledges too.

Basin Electric generates power for sale to rural electric cooperatives serving some one million customers in the Dakotas, Nebraska, Minnesota, Iowa, Colorado, Wyoming and Montana.

Mootz To Speak

Hastings (P) — Dr. M. W. Mootz of Le Sueur, Minn., will be the featured speaker at the annual meeting of the Nebraska Optometric Association's Association at the Villager Motel in Lincoln Saturday and Sunday.

3 Men, Woman Arraigned In Robbery Of Truck Driver

Three men and a woman, all listing Lincoln addresses, were arraigned Friday on robbery charges before Lancaster County Judge Ralph W. Scolum.

Hansen To Seek Six-Year Term As NU Regent

Omaha (P) — Kermit Hansen of Omaha Friday announced he will run for a six-year term on the University of Nebraska Board of Regents.

Hansen was appointed by former Gov. Norbert Tiemann to fill the vacancy on the board created by the resignation of Richard Herman of Omaha.

That term expires at the end of 1972. The only other announced candidate for the post is former state Sen. Clifton Batselder who was defeated by Tiemann in the primary election as Republican candidate for governor.

The four persons each requested counsel. The judge set preliminary hearing for them for Dec. 2.

According to police reports, Leslie D. Prouty, 39, of Scottsbluff, said he was pulled from his truck, beaten and robbed of $70 at approximately 2:30 a.m. Friday near a truck stop at 4040 Cornhusker Hwy.

Judge Scolum set bond at $5,000 for the men and $2,500 for the woman.

Robert J. Harig, 29, of 7003 Kearney, was released after posting bond. Being held in lieu of bond late Friday were Paul L. Wahl, 24, of 3179 Kleckner Ct.; James J. LeGrande, 27, of 3277 Morrill, and Carole J. Campbell, 22, of 6208 Havelock Ave.

'Future Of Parks Rests With Citizen'

"The very future of the parks and recreation movement ultimately rests with the citizen," Robert Artz Friday told an audience of over 100 representatives from park and recreation boards and commissions from across Nebraska.

"Until we as professionals are willing and able to make them full-fledged partners in our efforts we will never be successful," said Artz, director of community services for the National Parks and Recreation Association in Washington, D.C.

In an interview at the day-long workshop, sponsored by the Nebraska Recreation and Parks Association, Artz said the increased leisure available to many Americans meant that planning was needed to handle an increased demand for recreational programs and facilities.

"Parks and recreation have to be up there as a national priority and I think it's coming," Artz said.

The value of recreation, Artz said, is that it brings people together in a nice environment.

"It cuts across all the people — rich and poor, young and old, and Black and white, he said. "You can find as many kinds of recreation as there are people."

Artz, who submitted a "blueprint for a statewide organization of recreation, park and conservation board and commission members" at the workshop, said Nebraska had good potential in developing park and recreational services.

"This meeting was terrific," Artz said. "Nebraska is in a good position — as are many of the Midwestern and Western states. It's time to take advantage of your environment and plan adequately. You have the time to do that in Nebraska, some states don't."

"Some states are behind," he said. "But it's the kind of 'behind' people like to live in."

Hands-Off Policy Told By Rogers

Washington (UPI) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers said Friday the United States was "apprehensive" that war might erupt between India and Pakistan in the next few days, but he told applauding journalists that American forces would not intervene.

"Diplomatically we are going to do everything we can to prevent war from breaking out," he told the 62nd annual convention of Sigma Delta Chi, the honorary journalism society.

But he added, "if war breaks out we intend to stay out. We are not going to get involved in another war."

Rogers expressed concern over the buildup of forces and the rising wave of armed clashes for a second day along the East Pakistan border.

"We are apprehensive that these clashes might lead to an outbreak of hostilities in the days ahead," he said. "We have urgently counseled both sides to exercise maximum restraint."

Other administration officials said they did not believe the Soviet Union or Communist China would seek to become involved in any outbreak of war.

Richard White, lobbyist for the Nebraska Democratic Party, will be featured speaker at a Lancaster County Young Democrats meeting Tuesday.

White will discuss the role of the party lobbyist and the way Young Democrats can effect change through lobbying.

Colin 'Pleased' With Result Of Lancaster Manor Audit

County Commissioner Robert

Colin said in a prepared release

Friday that he was "very well pleased with the results of the audit" of Lancaster Manor.

He said there "seems to be a misconception in the minds of some people that I am very unhappy and disappointed with the results of the recently-completed audit of Lancaster Manor by the Nebraska State Audit Department.

"This is far from being true," Colin said, adding that he was "not only happy" but "well pleased" with the results.

He said that having discussed the audit with the state auditor, "I am thoroughly convinced the unorthodox procedures, the practice of selling county property by employees of Colonial Homes, Inc., the mishandling of county funds, and the using of special funds containing county money" have been discontinued.

It is very gratifying to know that there are times when one's time and efforts are not always all in vain," the release stated.

Horses Save Bear-Step's Life

CHAMPIONSHIP HORSE SHOW WILL END SATURDAY

By MARK GORDON
Star Sports Writer

If it hadn't been for an Appaloosa horse, Shatka Bear-Step might not be alive today.

Born almost 80 years ago in the Cherokee Strip in Oklahoma Territory, Bear-Step stayed alive for his first five months by drinking Appaloosa horse milk. Although the mare that provided the milk died a short time later, her colt lived for 34 years under Bear-Step's care.

"I'm indebted forever to the Appaloosa horse—in fact, I owe my life to it," says the man who has become a legend in modern Appaloosa history.

"I didn't get tall, dark and handsome from drinking the milk, but I did get tough," he says.

In Lincoln for the World

Championship Appaloosa Performance Show at the Fairgrounds Coliseum, Bear-Step performed his famous Lord's Prayer Friday night.

Saturday, beginning at 7:30 p.m., is the final show which concludes the event's three-day run.

Although there are now 250,000 Appaloosas, the breed's population shrank to just 25 in 1933. Most were in the Poluce River Valley in Washington, Idaho and Oregon.

"At that time, the Indians drank the Appaloosa's blood to stay alive," Bear-Step of Cherokee ancestry, pointed out.

For the past 24 years, he has attended the nation's most prestigious Appaloosa shows.

Although Bear-Step owns just seven Appaloosas on his ranch near Rawhide, Ariz., one of them—Apache Tears—is one of the country's most famous horses.

The 14-year-old stallion is 1970's Grand Marshall of the Parada Del Sol and Bear-Step rides him in movie scenes and for personal appearances. Bear-Step's trophy collection at his Scottsdale, Ariz., home numbers more than 100.

Besides his Appaloosa interest, he is known as a master of the ancient Indian art of producing distinctive designs in molten silver. His silver and turquoise creations are sought by breeders and owners of Appaloosas, particularly the Bear-Step Katouche which he awards to the champion two-year-old stallion each year at the National Appaloosa Horse Show.

"The show here is the World Series of our trade," he says.

North Platte — Tom Heiser

hereditary chief of Mi Ashi Ton Gaxas says, "You'd be prejudiced, too, if you spent as much time with them (Appaloosas) as I have."

The event, which attracted 297 horses from 39 states, has 15 classes, each with nearly $1,000 in prize awards.

Mayor Of North Bend Wants Sheriff Recalled

Fremont (P) — North Bend Mayor Leon Settles said Friday he has been asked to start a recall petition against Dodge County Sheriff Homer Brainard.

Settles, in an interview, said he has not decided whether he will take the action, but added "I would say if there's enough public reaction for one, it's a possibility. I personally don't want to start this type of thing."

Settles commented after accusations of malfeasance in Brainard's office concerning the sale of a 1971 Buick at a sheriff's sale Oct. 4.

Former Deputy James Schieley said he was fired Monday night by Brainard after the sheriff accused him of instituting a complaint against Deputy James Bliven. Bliven purchased a 1971 Buick from Tom Potter, Fremont police reservist, Oct. 6. Potter purchased a 1971 Buick at the sheriff's sale Oct. 4.

Brainard, in a statement Thursday, said Schieley was fired because of absenteeism, over-all performance and other incidents.

Schieley said Friday, "as far as my over-all performance of duty, I'm sure the records can be checked at the sheriff's office. Although I was the night supervisor, I still maintained the highest arrest record of the department."

"During the last two years, I've caught four burglars in the act of burglarizing business establishment in Dodge County, which no other deputy has done, not even Brainard."

Schieley said Nebraska Atty. Gen. Clarence Meyer advised him Thursday to make a statement to the investigating officer and Dodge County Atty. Gordon Gobel.

An investigation of the sheriff's sale was conducted by the Fremont Police Dept.

Gobel has written to Meyer to request his recommendations on whether to prosecute concerning the incident. Meyer said he received Gobel's report Friday morning, but added it was a confidential communication and said it is up to Gobel if he wants to make the contents public. The Dodge County Board of Supervisors has asked for Gobel's report. He said he will make it available to the board.

Brainard contended Thursday through his attorney, William Lue of Fremont, the statute involved does prohibit him from purchasing a car at a sale he conducts, but there is nothing illegal concerning the latest sale.

Brainard said the entire incident is a continuation of the last political campaign.

THE RYATT

DID YOU KNOW THIS? IT'S A FACT: Last year applications for patents in Japan totaled $25,000.

The white-tail deer's winter coat is so well insulated that the animal can sleep in snow all night without melting it.

A female rat may produce eight litters of 12 rats each in the nine fertile months of her one-year life.

Only 20 states provide some office space for rank-and-file members of their legislatures.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE: Here's How to Work It

One letter simply stands for another in this example. A is used for the three L's X for the two O's etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. If your first name is four letters, add one to spell out the first letter. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is six or more, subtract 1 from the number. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.
